Marion Sines Retires From The Herald

The telephone in the newsroom rings. Marion Sines, society editor answers it and the voice on the other end says, "The star is shining on Tuesday."

Now, everyone knows that unless it is a cloudy night there will certainly be some stars in the sky, and more than likely they will be shining.

Mrs. Sines knows that there is more to it than that. She knows that it means a certain organization in Circleville will meet, and that it is scheduled for Tuesday.

After working at the Circleville Herald for 10 years, Mrs. Sines is retiring as Society Editor. Her life will continue to be quite active though, as she has many trips planned and will continue to serve in the organizations she belongs to.

Since she began work in the newsroom in December of 1966, Mrs. Sines has done a variety of jobs. At times, she has been city editor, general reporter, and even sports editor. She has written stories on births, deaths, "mainly about people," and many, many feature stories on the lives and times of people in the county.

Mainly, though, Mrs. Sines has reported on social events in the county. She cannot count the weddings she has written, engagement pictures and stories she has published and the meetings that she has reported.

After ten years she can truly be called "the lady of the newsroom" and everybody at the Herald wishes her a happy and fulfilling life of retirement.

Electoral College Votes Counted

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's time to count the votes in the 1976 presidential election and declare a winner.

There hasn't been much doubt about the outcome since the morning of Nov. 3 when the bulk of the popular vote had been counted in each state. But the election really isn't official until Congress has made its own count of electoral votes.

Every four years, members of the House and Senate hold a joint session and make the official tally of the votes of presidential electors. Then the Congress declares one candidate the winner.

This year, the tally will give Jimmy Carter 297 electoral votes, Gerald Ford 240 and Ronald Reagan 1.

The number of electoral votes from each state is equal to the state's congressional representation. Every state gets a vote for each of its members of the House of Representatives and for each of its two senators.

That gives every state a minimum of three votes. In addition, the District of Columbia has three electoral votes to bring the total to 538.

The winner of the popular vote in each state normally receives all the state's electoral votes. However, presidential electors are not required by the Constitution to vote for popular vote winners and every four years there is at least one who doesn't.

This year it was an elector from Washington state who cast his vote for former California Gov. Reagan rather than for Ford, who won the state's popular vote.

Presidential electors met in the 50 state capitals and in the District of Columbia on Dec. 14, and cast their ballots for president. The results then were forwarded to Washington so Congress could do the official tally and declare the winner.

Snow Covers Southwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow blanketed much of the southwest today, with accumulations as much as six inches in the mountains of New Mexico and up to four inches in central Arizona.

The snow extended from southern California and Nevada into southern Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas, sometimes mixed with freezing rain.

Travelers advisories were in effect for central Arizona, Kansas, the southern Rockies, the southern plains and southwest Missouri.

There was also light snow from eastern North Dakota into Michigan and some drizzle in the eastern parts of Kentucky and Tennessee.

Temperatures this morning were unusually cold across the northern United States, with readings below zero stretching from the northern Atlantic states into the northern plateau region.

Temperatures at 2 a.m. ranged from 69 at Brownsville, Tex., to 12 below at Idaho Falls, Idaho.

School Financing Woes Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes and his chief legislative rival, Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, are looking in different directions for a solution to Ohio's school financing problems.

Rhodes says the equal yield subsidy formula cannot work because it is a "reward system" based on the willingness of local communities to raise their real estate taxes.

"We have a good formula that has not yet been able to fully operate," Ocasek said Wednesday in assessing equal yield, now in its second year and funded at 26 per cent of goal levels.

Rhodes is expected to name a task force next week to study the entire problem which generated nationwide publicity last month when eight Ohio school districts shut down.

"I don't know the answer," the Republican governor said. "No one has the answers."

But as a partial solution at least, Rhodes said he would support a state guarantee of support for "basic education" that would assure financially pressed schools could stay open. "Basic education," presumably would include the three Rs and a few other traditional courses.

"I don't need any task force on education," Ocasek said when told about the Rhodes panel. "We have one. I have fought to keep the Education Review Committee."

The review committee, a bipartisan House-Senate study group, will study the "income factor" to see how it relates to the present formula's reliance on real estate taxes, the Akron University education professor said.

In the meantime, he said equal yield's basic thrust was to give increased state aid to low wealth but high tax-effort school districts, sometimes at the expense of rich districts.

Ocasek rejected Rhodes' notion of a basic education guarantee, even though he acknowledged receiving some 25 hostile letters asking him: "don't you care about closed schools?"

"The total child goes to school," he said. "I want the frills." Without some specialized courses, Ocasek said Ohio schools would turn out "hunks of protoplasm," rather than well-rounded students.

The senate leader noted that the state had pumped a record of nearly $500 million in new money into primary and secondary schools during the present two-year period.

By the beginning of the 1978-79 school year, he said equal yield subsidies should be at 70 per cent of the optimum level, which would bring the state share of the total school dollar to at least 50 per cent. It is currently about 43 per cent.

While state money increases, Ocasek complained "some of these podunk places are squawking about 20 mills"—the minimum local tax rate for basic state aid.

Rhodes, who calls the education issue a "sacred cow," is on a different wavelength.

"When they try to equalize (the tax base), the schools that have more money, get more money," he contended.

The state guarantees $48 per pupil per mill for each local mill levied for schools between 20 and 30, but beyond that ceiling, state dollars level off.

REPLACING THE RAIL — Norfolk and Western Railroad personnel closed the Main St. crossing today to replace rails which was not renewed during the summer maintenance program. A solution was poured onto the rails and ignited to melt ice and snow which had built up around the rails. The crossing was reopened about 3 p.m.

Suspicious Arise Of Profiteering On Coffee Prices

NEW YORK (AP) — The coffee boycott spreading to parts of the nation has caused little price change but has brewed much confusion over the cause of spiraling costs.

Some observers have blamed the high prices on a shortage of coffee beans. Others have blamed higher export taxes for forcing the price up.

And the announcement Wednesday that Brazil more than doubled its coffee export earnings in 1976 while exporting only about 7 per cent more coffee prompted speculation of conspiracy and market manipulation.

Some coffee industry spokesmen say a conspiracy is imaginary. But the prices are not. In the United States, they have risen from about $1.25 a pound to more than $3 in the last year. Prices in Austria doubled in 1976 in three installments. In Israel, where the Consumer Authority is urging a coffee boycott, the price is now about $4.50 a pound, up from $1.68 a year ago.

Here is a breakdown of the major areas now raised in the current debate on coffee prices:

Why are prices rising?

The 1975 killer frost that destroyed many of Brazil's coffee trees, which take five years to be replenished, is only one of the natural and political disasters being blamed for the current situation.

The frost coincided with civil war in Angola, cutting production there by two-thirds, an earthquake in Guatemala, disruption in Uganda and flooding in Colombia.

"We can't blame the coffee producers for what's been happening to prices," said Joan Braden, consumer affairs adviser in the U.S. State Department.

Because of the worldwide supply situation, some producing nations have raised their export taxes to keep the coffee at home. Brazil, for instance, boosted its tax from $55 to $100 a bag since Dec. 20.

Is there a shortage?

A spokesman for the Folger Coffee Co. in Cincinnati, a major roaster of green coffee beans, said, "although the Brazilian frost did hurt the crop, there is no worldwide shortage. We can see no good reason why green coffee prices should be so high."

William Korbin, president of Acer & Korbin Coffee Importers of Norwalk, Conn., agreed there is no shortage. But he said neither is there a huge surplus of coffee to keep the price low.

Is there manipulation?

Charges of market manipulation to drive up the price of coffee tend to be discounted by coffee experts.

"The issue in the market is that you can charge what you want and I can pay what I want," said a coffee source in New York. "That seems more legitimate than looking for behind-the-scenes manipulation."

Will boycotts help?

Consumer boycotts organized in the United States and other countries have had little effect — prices in London on Tuesday dropped just one cent — and a coffee dealer said consumers would have to cut their coffee drinking in half for two months to affect prices.

Even if the boycott produced a 25 per cent drop in consumption, that's only 7 per cent of the world total, and officials said that would barely dent world prices.

Ford Given Unusual Gift

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford got a farewell salute from his Cabinet at a candlelit dinner dance, where he received a coffee table-sized copy of the White House Cabinet room table as a memento.

Each member of the Cabinet had his signature engraved on the table at the place where he was seated during meetings with Ford.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger presented the gift. "We all feel very strongly about him as a human being," Kissinger told reporters later. "It was a very warm evening."

The 37 guests dined at four small tables at a private club a few blocks from the White House on a snowy Wednesday evening. The menu included roast saddle of lamb and American wines.

"I can't say in words what it really meant to us," Ford said as he left the party with his wife at 12:30 a.m. He seemed to be in a jovial mood and said it was "a great Cabinet, a great party, a wonderful evening."

Ford has invited the Cabinet members to a meeting on Saturday and they are to bring along their children to see the historic White House where their parents made national policy.

Gas Curbs Could Close Schools

By DIANE DUSTON

Ohio school officials, already following strict energy conservation policies, are looking for new ways to conserve gas while trying to avoid curtailing activities.

Those with the worst problems are the superintendents in districts which receive gas from Columbia Gas of Ohio and were cut to 50 percent of their basic allocation on Jan. 1.

In northwest Ohio, superintendents in seven of 17 school districts said they doubt if they will be able to get through March on Columbia's allocation.

Steps they have discussed to forestall gas depletion include moving spring vacation into February, turning thermostats to 65 degrees and shutting off heat an hour before school is over. Other measures considered are closing high gas consuming buildings, doubling up in buildings on other fuel systems through split sessions or curtailing after-school activities.

Officials of the Toledo district, which was closed Dec. 3 for financial reasons, said they were able to save gas during the closure and should be able to get through the winter on their allocation.

Included in the important events of 1976 is a milestone for the Pickaway County Bar Association. Miss Barbara Jo Lucks joined the group as its first female lawyer.

She had been clerking at the Ashville office of Margulis Gussler Hall and Hosterman for one year. She finished law school at Capital University. After graduating in May of 1976, she took the Bar Examination in July.

When getting positive results from the test, Miss Lucks settled into a job at the lawyers' office and joined the local bar association.

She said she likes the job because the work is diversified. She is getting good experience with criminal, domestic and property cases. Because Miss Lucks is just starting her practice she appreciates the variety in the cases. A native of Columbus, Miss Lucks still resides there at 2676 Cannon Point. She went through the Bexley school system which was where she made the decision to go into the field of law.

"I was a junior in high school when I first started thinking about it," Miss Lucks said. Since that time she has worked for and attained her goal.

The lady lawyer went through college for her bachelor's degree in three years because she realized law school was still in front of her. She graduated from Elmhurst College, Chicago, in 1973. Her major was political science and public speaking.

Miss Lucks said she likes the Ashville community and Pickaway County. She is very satisfied with her work and will probably be staying here for a while.

President's Campaign Chief Gets Push

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says he'd like to see his former campaign manager become chairman of the defeated Republican party, but the move may do more to stir than to settle the debate over the GOP future.

Ford's preference for James A. Baker III, a Houston lawyer, was seconded by Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller at a White House meeting of party leaders on Wednesday.

But there is sure to be stiff opposition from Ronald Reagan's supporters. And that's not the only problem for the President's side.

Meanwhile, President-elect Carter asked members of the Democratic National Committee today to elect former Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis of Maine as party chairman.

That guarantees that Curtis will be selected for the post being vacated by Robert Strauss.

Ford made his choice known after telling Reagan, Rockefeller and former Texas Gov. John B. Connally of it at Wednesday's private White House luncheon.

It was the second time in a month those four had met to talk about the future of the party, and Reagan emerged saying they had not agreed on a consensus candidate for the chairmanship, and didn't try to do so.

"Anybody who wants to speak up can," said Reagan.

Ford did, in a telephone conversation with Mary Louise Smith, the resigning chairman of the national committee.

A White House source said the President emphasized in the conversation that he will support the chairman selected by the national committee when its 162 members vote on Jan. 14 or 15. He added that if Mrs. Smith wanted to know his personal preference, it was Baker.

Rockefeller said that traditionally, "when there is a vacancy in the chairmanship to be filled during the term of an incumbent president, the president is consulted.... In view of this fact, I shall favor whomever the president supports," he said.

But Ford's incumbency will have no more than six days to run when the Republicans select their new chairman, and tradition has not left to defeated presidential candidates the choice of the party's top official.

Reagan's allies favor Richard Richards, the Utah Republican chairman, for the national committee post. Richards has been campaigning aggressively, by telephone and in a tape recorded message mailed to committee members.

And there are more candidates to contend with, including Robert Carter, now the co-chairman of the national committee. Mrs. Smith has told associates she favors Carter as her successor.

Yoshimura Keeps Mum At Hearing

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — An emotional land by Wendy Yoshimura to keep silent about Patricia Hearst and other persons she encountered during 3 1/2 years underground has cost her five charges of contempt of court.

"It is impossible to explain my life after 1972 without suggesting or providing information about the people and friends who helped me," she whispered Wednesday in a hushed courtroom at her weapons possession trial.

"I want you to understand that I hold very strong moral principles that prevent me from doing this," she said.

Miss Yoshimura — who had helped her elude arrest during the early months of her flight.

The two women were roommates in San Francisco when they were captured by the FBI in September 1975. Alameda County Superior Court Judge Martin Pulich cited Miss Yoshimura for contempt when she refused to answer prosecutor Jeff Horner's questions about her flight from the terrorist underground.

She was to continue testimony in her defense today.

Under questioning by defense attorney James Larson, Miss Yoshimura, 33, said she learned in a telephone call on March 31, 1972, that her boy friend, William Brandt, had been arrested at a Berkeley garage where police found a cache of illegal weapons and bomb-making material.

Miss Yoshimura, who had rented the garage, said the caller "was one of the people who helped me to leave the area." When she refused to identify the caller, Larson asked her why and she removed from her pocket a dramatic prepared statement and read it to the jury.

limits but is worried about what will happen if Columbia's recent plan to curtail supplies to small commercial users by 30 per cent is approved by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

Schools using more than one million cubic feet of natural gas per month have been cut by 50 per cent. The gas company has asked the PUCO to approve reduction of the allocation to schools using between 200,000 and one million cubic feet of gas by 30 per cent.

Cincinnati Gas and Electric Co. has cut schools 21 per cent, Dayton Power and Light Co., has curtailed by 25 per cent. No cuts have been made by Ohio Gas Co., in northwest Ohio, River Gas Co., in eastern Ohio, the West Ohio Gas Co., in Lima, or East Ohio Gas Co., in northeast Ohio.

Although cutbacks to schools by Dayton Power and Light have been only 25 per cent, superintendents served by that company met Tuesday to make contingency plans for increased curtailments.

In Lorain, school superintendents and representatives of Columbia Gas Co. plan to meet Friday morning at the Lorain County Joint Vocational School in Oberlin to discuss effects of Columbia's curtailments. The school officials say the cutbacks and the continuing cold spell may force some schools to shut down.

In Columbus, a school energy crisis task force was formed Tuesday by Supt. of Public Instruction Martin W. Essex to procure information from Columbia Gas on the availability of emergency natural gas. The group also will examine the likelihood of the present crisis occurring next year and the reason Columbia's problems are different from other gas suppliers.

The nine-member task force of representatives from the state's major education-related organizations and school superintendents also will investigate methods schools can use to cope with dwindling gas supplies.

Marriage Fees Boosted By Clerk

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — The Board of Supervisors has decided to increase marriage license fees — and the additional revenue is earmarked to help prevent divorce.

County Clerk Marvin Church recommended the increase from $6 to $8 to help cover expenses in the Court of Conciliation, a free marriage counseling service for county residents.

Those on the other end of the spectrum weren't exempted by the board from subsidizing the counseling service either. The board also decided that the cost for dissolution of marriage and other family law filings will be increased from $48.50 to $53.50.

The higher fees are expected to produce more than $28,000 a year.

GM Grabs 56 Per Cent Of Market

DETROIT (AP) — Nearly 56 of every 100 new U.S.-built cars sold carried the name of a General Motors division in 1976 as the No. 1 automaker captured a record share of the domestic market.

"It's the first time we're above 55," said a GM analyst who checked records dating back to 1926, when Ford Motor Co. dominated the industry.

Official industry sales figures released Wednesday showed the world's largest automaker produced 4,800,716 of 8,606,573 American cars sold last year — a 55.8 per cent share.

GM's penetration of the market it shares with Ford, Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp. was up sharply from a 53.2 share in 1975 and 49.6 in 1974.

Chrysler's share went up from 14.1 in 1975 to 15.1. Ford declined from nearly two points to 26.2 and AMC fell from 4.6 to 2.9.

In 1976, each one-point change involved 86,000 cars worth more than $500 million at retail.

Analysts attributed GM's gain, in part, to a four-week strike against Ford last fall. But in 1967, when Ford was struck for nearly 10 weeks, GM's share increased only to 54.7 per cent.

GM's analyst said sharp gains in mid-size car sales — the industry's hottest segment — was a big reason for the firm's bigger share.

Executives at GM's competitors, however, say it's a case of the big getting bigger. "They simply drop in three or four cars in each new segment that opens up," said one official. "They've got the market covered like glue. No one else can afford to do that."

Mostly recently, GM concentrated on the big-car market. But when its market share dropped sharply during the oil embargo in late 1973, it rushed a bevy of little cars onto the market and now is the industry's small-car leader.

GM officials say they will try to capture an even larger share of the market this year. "It'll be tough, but we have a shot at it," said one executive.

Other industry analysts, however, say they expect GM's 1977 share to decline slightly, but not more than a point.

It has been reported that GM's top executives have set a personal goal to capture 60 per cent of the market. That, however, was denied Wednesday by Chairman Thomas A. Murphy.

"Our only objective is to get every sale we can," said Murphy, who has indicated in the past he isn't worried about anti-trust action "as long as we sell good products at fair prices and don't break any laws."

Last year, however, the Justice Department announced the start of an industry-wide antitrust investigation which eventually could lead to a breakup of GM. The probe is expected to take years to complete.

GM overtook Ford for good in 1931 on the highly successful marketing philosophy of providing a car for every taste. In 1954, the auto giant captured more than 50 per cent of the domestic market for the first time, and since then between 45 per cent and 55 per cent of domestic sales have carried the name Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick or Cadillac — all GM divisions.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was turned upward today in a technical rebound from its slide in the first three sessions of the new year.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks gained about 3 points in the early going.

Advancing issues outnumbered declines by about a 5-4 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market was shored up by bargain hunting and covering of previous short sales in the aftermath of the sharp declines since the start of the week.

Today's early prices included Transamerica, down 1/4 at 14 1/2; Cessna Aircraft, off 1/4 at 28; Chase Manhattan, up 1/4 at 31, and General Electric, up 1/4 at 53 1/2.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 9.81 to 978.06, extending its loss since the start of the week to 26.59 points.

Losing outnumbered gains by more than a 2-1 margin on the NYSE. Big Board volume reached 25.10 million shares, up from 22.74 million on Tuesday.

The NYSE's composite index lost .48 to 56.59. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .64 at 109.66.

GM Grabs 56 Per Cent Of Market

DETROIT (AP) — Nearly 56 of every 100 new U.S.-built cars sold carried the name of a General Motors division in 1976 as the No. 1 automaker captured a record share of the domestic market.

"It's the first time we're above 55," said a GM analyst who checked records dating back to 1926, when Ford Motor Co. dominated the industry.

Official industry sales figures released Wednesday showed the world's largest automaker produced 4,800,716 of 8,606,573 American cars sold last year — a 55.8 per cent share. GM's penetration of the market it shares with Ford, Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp. was up sharply from a 53.2 share in 1975 and 49.6 in 1974.

Chrysler's share went up from 14.1 in 1975 to 15.1. Ford declined from nearly two points to 26.2 and AMC fell from 4.6 to 2.9.

In 1976, each one-point change involved 86,000 cars worth more than $500 million at retail.

Analysts attributed GM's gain, in part, to a four-week strike against Ford last fall. But in 1967, when Ford was struck for nearly 10 weeks, GM's share increased only to 54.7 per cent.

GM's analyst said sharp gains in mid-size car sales — the industry's hottest segment — was a big reason for the firm's bigger share.

Executives at GM's competitors, however, say it's a case of the big getting bigger. "They simply drop in three or four cars in each new segment that opens up," said one official.

"They've got the market covered like glue. No one else can afford to do that."

Until recently, GM concentrated mostly on the big-car market. But when its market share dropped sharply during the oil embargo in late 1973, it rushed a bevy of little cars onto the market and now is the industry's small-car leader.

GM officials say they will try to capture an even larger share of the market this year. "It'll be tough, but we have a shot at it," said one executive.

Other industry analysts, however, say they expect GM's 1977 share to decline slightly, but not more than a point.

It has been reported that GM's top executives have set a personal goal to capture 60 per cent of the market. That, however, was denied Wednesday by Chairman Thomas A. Murphy.

"Our only objective is to get every sale we can," said Murphy, who has indicated in the past he isn't worried about anti-trust action "as long as we sell good products at fair prices and don't break any laws."

Last year, however, the Justice Department announced the start of an industrywide antitrust investigation which eventually could lead to a break-up of GM. The probe is expected to take years to complete.

GM overtook Ford for good in 1931 on the highly successful marketing philosophy of providing a car for every taste. In 1954, the auto giant captured more than 50 per cent of the domestic market for the first time, and since then between 45 per cent and 55 per cent of domestic sales have carried the name Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick or Cadillac — all GM divisions.

Jury Awards $10,000 Damages

Walter A. Engle, administrator of the estate of the late Bernard Engle, was awarded $10,000 in compensatory damages by verdict of a 12-member jury. The action was brought against Lincoln Isaac, 410 E. Mill St.

Fifteen witnesses testified during the trial, which began Monday, and the jury deliberated nearly two hours before returning their verdict. No punitive damages were awarded.

The compensatory total includes a $4,573.53 interrogatory award for lost wages.

Engle claimed that on April 29, 1975, Isaac assaulted the decedent on W. Main St., causing physical harm which required medical attention and hospitalization.

He claimed the decedent lost wages by being off work because of his injuries, and asked for $280,000 damages.

Isaac denied the assault charge and claimed that he acted in self-defense.

In other interrogatories, the jury found that the injuries were proximate caused by the assault. No amount was awarded for pain and suffering.

Engle was represented by John Hosterman, while James Kingsley was attorney for the defendant.

Unstable OPEC Scene

One of the problems with cartels is that even when their members have a falling out and at least a few of them come to their senses, the scenario seldom goes according to the script. Cartels are very unstable. Marketing structures, dependent more upon a few personalities for their direction than the far more diverse marketplace.

That is why the oil scene as laid out by Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates — in publicly bolting the higher price increases adopted by all the other OPEC countries — isn't necessarily the way it will work out.

On paper it looks good. Because Saudi Arabia by far is the world's largest oil exporter, along with its small ally supplying about one-third of the current world needs, the Saudis' dominance is that they are the dominant force in the pricing structure. Saudi economists even have it figured that if Saudi oil production is increased to full capacity, at the lower prices that country may be able to supply half the world's demand.

In that event, the Saudis further reason, the other OPEC members will be forced to lower their prices to Saudi levels. One point is overlooked in this analysis. Fully half the world's oil needs still will have to come from the other OPEC countries. If they hold together they may still be able to get their higher prices, and in fact may be able to demand still higher tariffs to make up for the production lost to Saudi Arabia.

Should that happen, how long would the Saudis continue to sell their oil at less than cartel-set prices? Especially with the enmity of their OPEC colleagues bearing down on them.

That Tastes Good

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Mary Tyler Moore, expressing the sentiments of thousands of career women, philosophized:

"Cooking is a waste of time. You go to a bundle of trouble to produce a great meal, and in a matter of minutes everybody's made it disappear."

Videotape is more enduring, more worth the effort. Of course, many people mistakenly find cooking to be a joy and release, even a creative endeavor, but they are folks who cannot see the forest for the trees — or the dirty dishes for the soufflé.

Cooking is tough enough, but now the famous seeress Jeane Dixon is adding stellar complications to the job. She feels strongly that everyone should be served food that not only is nutritious and delicious — but astrologically suitable. In her zodiacal view, the stars influence the stomach and taste buds.

"I feel I must eat foods that are in concert with both my temperament and my body chemistry," proclaims Mrs. Dixon, "to fulfill my potential in life."

Astrology buffs, particularly, may deem this sensible, but good grief! (or, my stars!), it surely can complicate one's meal planning and preparation.

For example, each astrological sign dictates not only the kind of foods and method of cooking that are most suitable — but the kind of astrological dining partners one should choose.

To take a for-instance: as a Capricorn, I am "happiest eating in the company of diners born under the signs of Taurus and Virgo." Since my usual companions are a husband and son, both Libras, obviously I am missing much at mealtime.

Even if I could find some Taurians or Virgonians to share my table on Saturday nights ("Capricornians are happiest entertaining on Saturdays"), I would run into a further complication.

Taurians want "only the best; if they can't have the finest steak, fruits or vegetables, they'd rather have nothing at all." Virgonians are "super-careful about their diets, often becoming vegetarians." The Capricornians' astrological food list is short (barley, beets, saffron and quince). So what kind of menu would I select to please my compatible guests with their incompatible zodiacal nutritional needs?

(Jeane Dixon says that's just like a Capricorn — worrying about details. "You're ruled by Saturn, the guru planet — you always have to have a blueprint for everything!")

To those women and men who feel up to facing its challenges to their credibility and edibility, Jeane Dixon's "Astrological Cookbook" (William Morrow and Co.) goes into great detail on how to eat horoscopically.

Some tasty tidbits include: Leos should have colorful, dramatic and exotic foods like flaming steaks and flambe desserts, and be careful of heart conditions and rheumatism in later years.

Pisces, the fish, could live on seafood, and are inspired cooks, though easily bored by the daily food preparation routine. They love romantic places, and like to entertain on Thursdays.

Aquarians have a fetish for clean kitchens, are competent cooks, have down-to-earth tastes such as steaks, chops and roasts, and learned to cook by watching mother in the kitchen.

Sagittarians have a thing about travel and like foods from many places. But with their hearty appetites, they prefer simple, one-dish, filling meals like stews, soups and casseroles. They're one of the few signs under the Zodiac that enjoys British fare. Veddy tolerant, Sagittarians.

Scorpios have intense feelings about everything, including food. Their eating habits are a dead giveaway to their sign: a most unorthodox palate, they crave both hot dogs and mandarin duck, and love to entertain or be entertained on Tuesdays by Cancerians or Pisceans.

Aries? Ruled by Mars, they like hot seasonings, onions, leeks, mustard, horseradish. With a low tolerance for stimulants, Ms. Dixon says Aries should avoid drinking alcohol while cooking. Cook in advance, and relax with guests to avoid headaches and insomnia.

Gemini has the dual personality of the twins, and is better known for being erratic than for being a cook. The hangup in dining is indecision. What to serve? Jet-propelled, a night person, a Gemini needs plenty of milk, greens, nuts and fruits.

Cancer — moon child — loves kitchen tasks, and French chocolate soufflé or black bottom pie is Cancer's kind of dish. (Watch the last piece of cake — Cancerians will grab it.) Cancer is a worrier, concerned in entertaining that there won't be enough food to feed the guests; so he (or she) prepares too much, and then gorges on the leftovers.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Very few Americans ever will have to worry about W. Michael Blumenthal's "problem," which is what to do with a guaranteed-for-life consultant's fee while serving as Treasury secretary.

Many Americans, however, are deeply concerned about the practice that leads to his dilemma, which is for corporate chief executives to obtain from their companies lifelong incomes, sometimes even if removed from office.

Blumenthal obtained his contract as chairman and chief executive of Bendix Corp. Now, as Treasury secretary-designate, he faces what would appear to be a conflict in receiving income from a corporation and the government.

Some investors also think the entire notion of executive guarantees might conflict with the spirit of public corporations which, they remind you, are owned by the shareholders rather than by management.

Top management personnel nevertheless often obtain written assurance that upon their resignation they will be provided with a retainer for their advice, even when, as often occurs, that advice might be seldom sought.

Daniel J. Haughton, former chairman and chief executive officer of Lockheed Aircraft Corp. during the period in which it fell into financial difficulties and charges of unethical payoffs, is amply compensated.

Pressured to resign while a new management sought to restore the company's financial base and image, Haughton obtained a $750,000 settlement over a 10-year period. So did his vice chairman and chief operating officer.

The situation isn't isolated, and in many instances the former officers serve vital needs. They act as sounding boards, technical advisers, contact men and management consultants. Their experience sometimes is invaluable.

Sometimes also they do almost nothing, and sometimes nothing at all, which periodically irritates some investors during annual meeting time in April and May, despite claims by management that the practice is necessary to attract personnel.

Many investors see the practice in a larger context of liberal perquisites that include club memberships, cars, suites and generally unlimited expenses.

An example of investor irritation was provided a year ago by a letter writer to a business column. The writer began:

"I am among the millions who have prepared for retirement by saving and careful investment. I am angered by the high salaries, retirement clauses and other benefits given corporation executives at the expense of the little shareholders such as myself."

To such individuals, corporate benefits to the highest level officers are sometimes seen as a ripoff. Management is viewed as living off rather than contributing to the company.

Bell And Kelley Meet For Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — Griffin Bell, U.S. attorney general-designate, and FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley met for what a Bell aide called a nearly two-hour "get-acquainted session."

Kelley and his staff on several bureau projects on Tuesday, said Perry Adamson, an assistant to the man picked by President-elect Carter to head the Justice Department.

"It was an overview of the FBI" and similar to the briefings Bell has gotten from other department officials, Adamson said.

Bell had said Tuesday that he did not intend to discuss with Kelley whether Kelley would be retained as FBI director. Bell has not decided whether Kelley should be replaced, the aide noted.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Are some fibroid tumors more serious than others? How can one be sure if surgery is absolutely necessary?

Mrs. J. I. R., Mich.

Dear Mrs. R.:

Fibroid tumors of the uterus may occur singly or there may be three or four or more small ones. Their size and position in the uterus and the symptoms they produce determine the need and the kind of surgery that is necessary.

Fibroid tumors are benign, non-cancerous growths. Some are attached to the outside of the womb. Others originate in the muscle wall itself. A few are attached to the inner lining of the uterus (womb).

When fibroid tumors become large, they may be responsible for unusual or prolonged bleeding during the menstrual period, or between menstrual cycles.

In some instances, a large fibroid may press on the urinary bladder which lies in front of it. Frequency of urination becomes one of the problems.

Similarly, the large bowel or rectum, lying behind the uterus, may be compressed by a large fibroid, and rectal symptoms may follow.

In rare instances, a benign fibroid tumor may become cancerous. It is for this reason that doctors keep fibroid tumors under regular observation.

When surgeons suggest an operation they appreciate the fact that patients become anxious and would welcome an additional opinion.

I'm considering the possibility of having my breasts made smaller. If I were to have another child, would it affect my ability to breast-feed the baby?

Mrs. B. P., Tex.

Dear Mrs. P.:

All such plastic surgery aims at retaining the normal physiological functioning of the breast. In most instances, breast feeding is not in any way affected. Yet very extensive surgery may have some adverse effect on the breast-feeding of an infant.

Before getting involved with such surgery, you should have all of these questions definitely answered by your surgeon. Only in this way can you be spared post-operative disappointment.

Louise Lasser Tops Worst-Dressed List

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Louise Lasser, television "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman," tops this year's list of worst-dressed women, but Jacqueline Onassis didn't make it because designer Mr. Blackwell says he's "very bored" with her.

Blackwell, issuing his annual list of the world's 10 worst-dressed women Tuesday, said Miss Lasser dresses like a tumbleweed that "picks up every little piece of dust."

But he went out of his way to praise incoming First Lady Rosalynn Carter, saying she "dresses very nicely" and has "nice soft taste."

"She is a fine-looking lady," he added. "If she ever submits to becoming a Seventh Avenue hanger, I'm sorry for her."

Blackwell said he studied the women for the past year and based his selections on clothes they chose to suit their own tastes, not on those worn as costumes for a show.

"It's a whole new crop," he said. "I'm so bored with having said L.L. Taylor looks terrible. Who cares now?"

And Zsa Zsa Gabor — that's like saying my grandmother just had a baby."

Blackwell said he asked 60 people to select the worst-dressed woman on television, and all 60 voted for Dinah Shore. But he said he dropped her to No. 10 on his list because he found her "very boring." Mrs. Onassis, prominently displayed on the list in past years, was dropped this time for the same reason, he said.

Blackwell said he believes the best dressed women are former California Gov. Ronald Reagan's wife, Nancy; Mary Tyler Moore and Ann-Margret.

The complete list and Blackwell's comments:

1. Miss Lasser, "last summer's tumbleweed, tumbleweed."
2. Opera singer Marilyn Niska, "Carmen dressed like Sadie Thompson."
3. Television star Angie Dickinson, "the policewoman that has caught everything but fashion."
4. Singer Charo, "a rumble seat with a pushed up front."
5. Dancer Ann Miller, "a 1937 screen test."
6. Holland's Queen Juliana, "all the Queen's horses and all the Queen's men couldn't make Julie look good again."
7. Lee Radziwill, "Did Lee's designer go down with the Titanic?"
8. Country singer Loretta Lynn, "the right dress in the wrong century."
9. Television star Nancy Walker, "vacuum cleaners have better covers."
10. Dinah Shore, "wild again, beguiled again and constantly contrived again."

Krabach To Retire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Richard Krabach, director of administrative services, will retire at the end of January, Gov. James A. Rhodes said today.

"When Dick Krabach became director of administrative services two years ago, there was mutual understanding that he would serve until the department was running smoothly," Rhodes said. "He has carried through the transitional period and assures me that the department is well staffed and operating well."

Krabach, 63, will be succeeded by Assistant transportation director David L. Weir will assume Jackson's duties, the governor announced.

The governor said Krabach will vacation the last two weeks of the month and his final day will be Jan. 15.

Rhodes said Krabach will continue his nonpaying job as executive director of the cost control council.

"This council has important work to do and we believe it can save the Ohio taxpayers $100 million or more by cutting red tape and waste in state government," Rhodes said.

Krabach previously served Rhodes as finance director.

6 Ohioans Named To Various Boards

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Six Ohioans were named Tuesday by Gov. James A. Rhodes to serve on various boards and commissions in the state.

The appointees include Dr. Harold V. Appleman, 47, of Wooster, and Dr. Charles W. Miller, 59, of Crestline. Both will serve on the state Veterinary Medical Board, replacing members who term expires on Dec. 31.

Appointed to serve on the advisory council to the Board of Nursing Education and Nurse Registration were Dr. Glenn J. Haninger, 51, of Columbus and Dr. J. Douglas Veach, 44, of Worthington. Haninger replaces a council member whose term had expired. Veach was appointed to a second term.

Jacqueline F. Giles of Columbus was named to the Rehabilitation Services Commission. She succeeds June G. Hopps, who resigned.

Also named was Ralph S. Wright, 63, of Ravenna, reappointed to a post on the Ohio Higher Educational Facilities Commission.

Plans for construction of a 1,800 acre lake and park in the northwestern corner of Ross County began to gain momentum when the project was formally launched at a meeting in Washington C.H. The lake and park were proposed for the area surrounding Clarksburg.

Saltcreek's Warriors, playing their first official cage contest in their new gymnasium, dropped a 75 to 53 decision to the Broncos of Ashville. Valentine of Saltcreek scored 16 points, while Dick Hoover of Ashville tallied 19.

The Circleville Community Mission organization advanced its Lowery Lane project close to the actual construction stage.

Circleville's Court and Main Restaurant, formerly owned by Charles H. Glitt, was purchased by Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Bennington. It was to be called Bennie's Restaurant.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Are some fibroid tumors more serious than others? How can one be sure if surgery is absolutely necessary?

Mrs. J. I. R., Mich.

Dear Mrs. R.:

Fibroid tumors of the uterus may occur singly or there may be three or four or more small ones. Their size and position in the uterus and the symptoms they produce determine the need and the kind of surgery that is necessary.

Fibroid tumors are benign, non-cancerous growths. Some are attached to the outside of the womb. Others originate in the muscle wall itself. A few are attached to the inner lining of the uterus (womb).

When fibroid tumors become large, they may be responsible for unusual or prolonged bleeding during the menstrual period, or between menstrual cycles.

In some instances, a large fibroid may press on the urinary bladder which lies in front of it. Frequency of urination becomes one of the problems.

Similarly, the large bowel or rectum, lying behind the uterus, may be compressed by a large fibroid, and rectal symptoms may follow.

In rare instances, a benign fibroid tumor may become cancerous. It is for this reason that doctors keep fibroid tumors under regular observation.

When surgeons suggest an operation they appreciate the fact that patients become anxious and would welcome an additional opinion.

I'm considering the possibility of having my breasts made smaller. If I were to have another child, would it affect my ability to breast-feed the baby?

Mrs. B. P., Tex.

Dear Mrs. P.:

All such plastic surgery aims at retaining the normal physiological functioning of the breast. In most instances, breast feeding is not in any way affected. Yet very extensive surgery may have some adverse effect on the breast-feeding of an infant.

Before getting involved with such surgery, you should have all of these questions definitely answered by your surgeon. Only in this way can you be spared post-operative disappointment.

Louise Lasser Tops Worst-Dressed List

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Louise Lasser, television "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman," tops this year's list of worst-dressed women, but Jacqueline Onassis didn't make it because designer Mr. Blackwell says he's "very bored" with her.

Blackwell, issuing his annual list of the world's 10 worst-dressed women Tuesday, said Miss Lasser dresses like a tumbleweed that "picks up every little piece of dust."

But he went out of his way to praise incoming First Lady Rosalynn Carter, saying she "dresses very nicely" and has "nice soft taste."

"She is a fine-looking lady," he added. "If she ever submits to becoming a Seventh Avenue hanger, I'm sorry for her."

Blackwell said he studied the women for the past year and based his selections on clothes they chose to suit their own tastes, not on those worn as costuming for a show.

"It's a whole new crop," he said. "I'm so bored with having said Liz Taylor looks terrible. Who cares now?"

Krabach To Retire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Richard Krabach, director of administrative services, will retire at the end of January, Gov. James A. Rhodes said today.

"When Dick Krabach became director of administrative services two years ago, there was mutual understanding that he would serve until the department was running smoothly," Rhodes said. "He has carried through the transitional period and assures me that the department is well staffed and operating well."

Krabach, 63, will be succeeded by Department of Transportation Director Richard Jackson as director of administrative services, Rhodes said.

Assistant transportation director David L. Weir will assume Jackson's duties, the governor announced.

The governor said Krabach will vacation the last two weeks of the month and his final day will be Jan. 15.

Rhodes said Krabach will continue his nonpaying job as executive director of the cost control council.

"This council has important work to do and we believe it can save the Ohio taxpayers $100 million or more by cutting red tape and waste in state government," Rhodes said.

Krabach previously served Rhodes as finance director.

6 Ohioans Named To Various Boards

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Six Ohioans were named Tuesday by Gov. James A. Rhodes to serve on various boards and commissions in the state.

The appointees include Dr. Harold V. Appleman, 47, of Wooster, and Dr. Charles W. Miller, 59, of Crestline. Both will serve on the state Veterinary Medical Board, replacing members who terms expired on Dec. 31.

Appointed to serve on the advisory council to the Board of Nursing Education and Nurse Registration were Dr. Glenn J. Haninger, 51, of Columbus and Dr. J. Douglas Veatch, 44, of Worthington. Haninger replaces a council member whose term had expired. Veatch was appointed to a second term.

Jacqueline F. Giles of Columbus was named to the Rehabilitation Services Commission. She succeeds June G. Hopps, who resigned.

Also named was Ralph S. Wright, 63, of Ravenna, reappointed to a post on the Ohio Higher Educational Facilities Commission.

NEW YORK (AP) — Very few Americans ever will have to worry about W. Michael Blumenthal's "problem," which is what to do with a guaranteed-for-life consultant's fee while serving as Treasury secretary.

Many Americans, however, are deeply concerned about the practice that leads to the dilemma, which is for corporate chief executives to obtain from their companies lifelong incomes, sometimes even if removed from office.

Blumenthal obtained his contract as chairman and chief executive of Bendix Corp. Now, as Treasury secretary-designate, he faces what would appear to be a conflict in receiving income from a corporation and the government.

Some investors also think the entire notion of executive guarantees might conflict with the spirit of public corporations which, they remind you, are owned by the shareholders rather than by management.

Top management personnel nevertheless often obtain written assurance that upon their resignation they will be provided with a retainer for their advice, even when, as often occurs, that advice might be seldom sought.

Daniel J. Haughton, former chairman and chief executive officer of Lockheed Aircraft Corp. during the period in which it fell into financial difficulties and charges of unethical payoffs, is amply compensated.

Pressured to resign while a new management sought to restore the company's financial base and image, Haughton obtained a $750,000 settlement over a 10-year period. So did his vice chairman and chief operating officer.

The situation isn't isolated, and in many instances the former officers serve vital needs. They act as sounding boards, technical advisers, contact men and management consultants. Their experience sometimes is invaluable.

Sometimes also they do almost nothing, and sometimes nothing at all, which periodically irritates some investors during annual meeting time in April and May, despite claims by management that the practice is necessary to attract personnel.

Many investors see the practice in a larger context of liberal perquisites that include club memberships, cars, suites and generally unlimited expenses.

An example of investor irritation was provided a year ago by a letter writer to a business column. The writer began:

"I am among the millions who have prepared for retirement by saving and careful investment. I am angered by the high salaries, retirement clauses and other benefits given corporation executives at the expense of the little shareholders such as myself."

To such individuals, corporate benefits to the highest level officers are sometimes seen as a ripoff. Management is viewed as living off rather than contributing to the company.

They'll Do It Every Time

Did you ever hear the saying that some person who was not very trustworthy would "steal the pennies off Christ's eyes"? It must be the same kind of person who would steal the beautiful Christmas wreaths from the doors of a church but that is what happened at the Laurelville Trinity Church a few days before Christmas. When hearing of the theft, a very thoughtful person put new wreaths on the doors. Although no one saw them being replaced, I'll bet the persons who did it was wearing a Calico smock.

The employees of Woodland Greenhouse, Route 1, Laurelville, celebrated Christmas on Dec. 23 with a carry-in dinner in the home of Bill and Eve Dunetz, owners and operators of the greenhouse. The employees presented Bill and Eve each with a Christmas gift and each employee appreciated very much the gift given them by the Dunetz, a large turkey. Those present were Gay McCune of Rockbridge, Eva Tatman, Nancy and Kristie Wellman of South Perry, Joan Unger of Adelphi, Betty Boltenhouse, Lisa Haughn, Belinda Holmes, Marilyn and Norma Hopkins, and Ella McGee all of near Laurelville, Mr. and Mrs. Dunetz and their grandchildren Missy Durke and Todd Peters.

Christmas Eve guests of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth VanCuren and Doug were, Theresa Clevenger, Mrs. Lillie Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Danny VanCuren, Daniel, Dana and Darcy; Mr. and Mrs. David VanCuren and Davy; Mr. and Mrs. Dennis VanCuren and Denise.

Miss Linda Kempton who has been employed in Los Angeles, Calif. flew in two weeks ago to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elsworth Kempton of near Laurelville. On Christmas day their entire family enjoyed a reunion with a dinner and gift exchange. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Ted Kempton, Brian, Kevin, Rodney and Rachel of Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kempton and Tammy; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Kempton, Christina and Stacy, Linda and the host and hostess, Elsworth and Marion Kempton. On Jan. 3 Linda left for Miami, Fla. where she will be working for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Norwood Haynes of Nelsonville, Mr. and Mrs. Stillman Dille and Mrs. Edith Lattimer of Circleville, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Taylor of Laurelville and Mrs. Maudie Thomas of Coorod Road spent Dec. 22 with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Shaw of South Bloomingville and helped Mrs. Shaw (Jennie) celebrate her birthday. The group spent the evening in looking at old slides of the family and eating date nut pudding and coffee. Every one talked with the Shaw's son Damon who lives in Duncanville, Texas. Jennie is a sister of Mrs. Haynes (Nellie); Mrs. Dillie (Josephine) Edith Lattimer, Mrs. Thomas and Melvin Taylor.

Mrs. Esther (Chilcote) Reichelderfer entertained her family at her home in Columbus on Dec. 29. Her guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Chilcote of Laurelville; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Chilcote of Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Chilcote of Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. Don Chilcote, sons Nick and David of Columbus, Margaret Chilcote and Emanuel Schaal of Route 1, Kingston.

Mrs. Lee Reynolds and Elwood spent from Dec. 26 until last Friday with her mother, Mrs. Bessie Stetson of near Windsor, Mr. Reynolds joined them on Thursday and they all returned to Laurelville on Friday.

Supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Shaw of South Bloomingville on Christmas Eve were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Shaw, sons Steve and Rodney of Stoutsville and Renee Coakley of Columbus. Their Sunday dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Canter of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Chilcote, sons Nick and David of Columbus and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bowers of near Circleville enjoyed lunch and a gift exchange on Christmas day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Chilcote. On Sunday Don's family and Wayne and Evelyn were dinner guests of the Senior Chilcotes at the L-K Restaurant at Circleville.

Chuck and Casey Zawacki, Orman and Judy Hartman left last Thursday for Miami, Fla. where they attended the Ohio State-Colorado football game at the Orange Bowl on New Year's day. The folks flew back home after the game.

Mrs. Florence Iles; Mrs. Mildred Bigham; Mrs. Nelle Swackhammer, Mrs. Zola Flanigan, Mrs. Helen Winner and Mrs. Inez Lowery were dinner guests of the Rev. and Mrs.

Robert Hudgins at the Valley House in Chillicothe on Dec. 22.

Last Thursday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hartsaugh were Mrs. Alice Pontious of Amanda, her son Victor of Washington C. H. and her daughter LuAnne of Marietta. Sunday guests of the Hartsaugh's were Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hartsaugh and son Doug. The occasion was in celebration of Mrs. Helen Hartsaugh's birthday on Jan. 3.

The Rev. and Mrs. Jacob Lehman had as their guests of New Year's day, Mrs. Lester St. Clair and children Tammy, Brian, and Eric and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Stephenson of New Straitsville; Mrs. Earl Knight of Hemlock.

Guests of Bessie and Mildred Fetherolf on New Year's day were Mrs. Jean Valentine of Circleville; Richard Fetherolf and Mae Bias. Mrs. Ola VanFossen and son Craig, Mrs. John Karr and son Stacy, of Laurelville, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie VanFossen and family of Adelphi spent last week vacationing in Florida.

Ricky Lehman spent a few days of his vacation visiting his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lester St. Clair and family of New Straitsville.

I had a couple surprise callers last Sunday afternoon — Mr. Lucky himself, Wilman Koch and his wife from Rockbridge stopped at my home for a brief visit. We chatted about his being a recent winner of the Pot of Gold on the Ohio lottery then we started reminiscing about the days when Wilman and his family lived in Laurelville. His sisters Zella and Mary and a brother Herman are deceased, a brother Leslie and a sister Josie are living.

An interesting letter I received

Tuesday from Mrs. Richard (Margaret Hinton) Ballard of Tarlton informed me that Wilman's mother (Bertha Davis Koch) and Margaret's mother, who was Georgia Crider Hinton of near Hallsville were first cousins. Mrs. Koch was also a cousin of Mrs. Hinton's sister, Mrs. Victor (Effie Crider) Pontious and her brothers Russell, Ed and Dewey Crider, all of the Adelphi and Hallsville area. Mrs. Ballard was interested to read in the news last week of Wilman's good fortune since they are third cousins but haven't seen each other in many years. Another cousin is our own well known resident, Damon Pontious. Other cousins would be Margaret's sisters and brothers, Marie Dearth and Cecil Hinton of Chillicothe, Charles Hinton and Mrs. Ferne Ealy of Columbus, and Berman, Lawrence and Florence Hinton, deceased.

It is always nice to get a note or letter from some one who says they have found an item of special interest to them in the Laurelville news. It makes all the time I spend in running down items and typing them all worthwhile.

The Laurelville Senior Citizens Group will meet 6 p.m. Jan. 10 at the Laurel Hills United Methodist Church. There will be a carry-in supper for anyone 55 years or over in the area.

Shock Probation Granted

Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer granted shock probation to a New Holland man, but denied three other shock probation requests in opinions rendered Wednesday.

Timothy James Williams, 26, 31 S. Church St., New Holland, was given 56 days of two six-month to five year terms in the Mansfield Reformatory.

Williams was charged with arson Jan. 10 after causing damage to a truck with the intent to defraud, and was charged with receiving stolen property after acquiring 35 hogs he knew were stolen.

Judge Ammer found him guilty of both charges Sept. 1.

As terms of probation, Williams must make full restitution for all crimes in which he was involved, and not associate with certain persons.

Judge Ammer denied requests for shock probation submitted by Danny Dean Greathouse, 20, Columbus; Steven Keith Graves, 18, Route 4, Chillicothe; and Arnold J. Southers, Columbus.

Greathouse, charges May 11 with burglarizing a home in the northwestern part of the county and taking several rings, pled guilty to charges of aggravated burglary and grand theft June 23.

He was sentenced Sept. 1 to concurrent terms of from 4 to 25 years and from six months to 5 years in the Mansfield Reformatory.

In denying shock probation, Judge Ammer noted that Greathouse had been involved in criminal activities in Franklin County prior to his arrest. He also cited the seriousness of Greathouse's crimes.

Graves, arrested May 25 after stealing a motor vehicle from a home near Ashville, pled guilty to charges of breaking and entering and grand theft June 23.

He was sentenced Aug. 18 to concurrent six month to five year terms in the Mansfield Reformatory.

In denying Graves' motion for shock probation, Judge Ammer ruled that the crime. It was his opinion that Graves would be a threat if released. Graves would be a threat if released.

Southers was arrested Sept. 19 after he broke into the Hall Adkins Post, American Legion, and took property with a value in excess of $150.

He pled guilty Nov. 10 to charges of breaking and entering and grand theft, and was sentenced to consecutive one year to five year terms in the Ohio Penitentiary.

It was the opinion of Judge Ammer that Southers' request be denied because of his history of crimes and years of institutionalization.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Why Married Man Picks Up A Tramp

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote to you a few years back asking why a married man would pick up some tramp and treat her like a lady, then turn around and treat his wife (who was really a lady) like a tramp. Please try to locate it because your answer was one of the best things I've ever read, and I desperately need it now.

SAME BOAT IN ALLENTOWN
DEAR SAME: A sharp-eyed secretary with a mind like a steel trap found it, and here it is:

DEAR ABBY: Why will a married man pick up some tramp and treat her like a lady, then turn around and treat his wife (who is a lady) like a tramp?

MINNIE
DEAR MINNIE: A man picks up a tramp because he wants a female companion who is no better than he is. In her company he doesn't feel inferior. He rewards her by treating her like a lady.

He treats his wife (who is a lady) like a tramp because he feels that by degrading her he will bring her down to his level. This makes him feel guilty, so to get even with his wife for making him feel guilty, he keeps right on punishing her.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please check this question with your medical adviser? I can't face my doctor with it and it has me worried.

Is it possible for damage to be done to a child if conception occurred while the parents were on a sandy beach and a grain of sand entered into her womb's vagina and was carried into her womb with the sperm?

This didn't take place in a public area. It happened in private, but I have been worried about it ever since. Thank you.

WORRIED IN HAWAII
DEAR WORRIED: My medical advisers told me to tell you not to worry. (P.S. If it's a boy, name him "Sandy." If a girl, "Sandra.")

DEAR ABBY: We have two sons, 17 and 19. They aren't "bad," but they don't have any respect for me or anything I say.

When reprimanded, they both talk back to me and do as they please. I've begged my husband to help me make these boys mind, but he has never been any help at all. When I threaten to leave unless he disciplines our sons, he says "If I do, he'll throw them out, bag and baggage. I need help before it's too late."

NEEDS SUPPORT
DEAR NEEDS: It will comfort you little to be told that your sons have turned you out years ago and have obviously gotten away with it.

Your husband's co-opt is shameful. Tell the boys that if they don't shape up, you will not put up with their loutish behavior one day longer than the law allows.

Woman Ordained

CLEVELAND (AP) — About 45 male priests took part and a crowd of 1,000 persons jammed Trinity Cathedral as Ohio Bishop John Burt ordained the first woman priest in the Ohio Episcopal Diocese Tuesday night.

Bishop Burt, who last year disciplined a male priest for opening his church to an irregularly ordained woman priest, performed the traditional laying-on of hands to ordain The Rev. Mary Sterrett Anderson.

Meanwhile, a group protesting the ordination met at St. James Episcopal Church a couple of miles away to conduct what they called a "positive witness to the traditional all-male" ministry.

A speaker at the protest service, Dorothy Faber of Austin, Tex., said the Episcopal Church is "rapidly becoming people-centered rather than God-centered."

Mrs. Faber, who edits a traditionalist church newspaper, said priesthood for women has made the church "something other than it was."

She said scripture forbids women priests, making invalid the sacraments they would offer.

Signs Point To Winter To Remember

CINCINNATI (AP) — This could be a winter to remember, according to the chief meteorologist of the National Weather Service office here.

"It's one of these winters your grandmother talks about," said John Robinson. He added that this winter will be every bit as cold as any they talk about in the "old days."

Prior to this winter, "two or three winters stand out as very cold," said Robinson, referring to the winters of 1917-18, 1935-36 and 1962-63.

Prolonged cold has made this winter memorable for the entire state.

Toledo recorded its second coldest December ever with a chilling average temperature of 19.7 degrees. The average high last month in Toledo fell two degrees below freezing.

Cleveland also had its second coldest December on record with an average temperature of 23.3 degrees.

November was a record setter in Cincinnati and the combination of October and November set a record for those two months. December was an almsman in the record department, but it was still 6.1 degrees below normal.

Robinson blames the frigid weather on the persistence of circulation from Northern Canada to the Great Plains. "Each time the system is broken down, the cold seems to rebuild."

While the Ohio River hasn't frozen yet, Lake Erie has and maritime officials are warning that ice buildups are running as much as one month ahead of normal. A number of lake freighters already have become stuck in the ice and have had to call the Coast Guard to free them.

A prolonged cold snap could also freeze the Ohio River here for the first time since January, 1963.

"All we need now is a real good snow," Robinson said. "The kids would like it and it would really give us something to talk about."

Strong Prices For Soybeans

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Soybean supply-and-demand factors point to strong prices for this year, according to the chairman of the agriculture department at Wilmington College.

Dr. Donald Chafin suggested that in such an atmosphere state soybean growers might want to adopt what he termed an "upside-down pyramid" to secure high average selling prices.

"For example when the price reaches a satisfactory level, the producer initially sells 500 bushels," he said. "When prices rise 25 cents, he sells 100 bushels. Upon a second 25 cent price rise, he sells 2,000 bushels."

"The producer continues doubling the quantity he sells upon each preselected price rise, until he has sold all he intends to sell during that period. The preselected price rise figure can be whatever he chooses to make it."

The crucial factor in the upside-down pyramid marketing strategy, Chafin said, "is deciding the price level at which to make that first sale."

Legislation Aimed At Colleges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Lawmakers intend to keep a close watch on activities at Ohio colleges and universities, if legislation introduced during the opening week is any indication of majority sentiment.

Rep. Michael P. Stinziano, D-30 Columbus, has introduced a bill that would re-establish a freeze on tuition for the two-year fiscal period beginning July 1.

Gov. James A. Rhodes vetoed the fee freeze out of the current budget and, when he imposed a 1 per cent spending cut late last year, several institutions asked for tuition increases to make up for lost state money.

Stinziano's proposal would set a ceiling of $230 per quarter for instructional fees at state universities, community colleges, and general and technical colleges.

Rep. Patrick A. Sweeney, D-6 Cleveland, has put in a bill that would make the chairmen of the House and Senate Education committees voting members of the Board of Regents.

Teacher Walkouts Continue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

School officials in the Shetfield-Sheffield Lake School District were hoping to keep their six schools open today despite an expected strike by 133 of the district's 150 teachers.

Meanwhile, a strike by teachers in the Trumbull County Howland District continued despite renewed bargaining.

A spokeswoman for the Sheffield-Sheffield Lake Teacher Association, which represents the teachers, said they decided Wednesday night to walk out today after receiving no new offers from the school board in 11th-hour negotiations.

The district's teachers service 2,800 pupils. They asked for an $800 annual raise originally, trimming that to $492 retroactive to last Sept. 1 as recommended by an impasse panel.

The school board, meanwhile, raised its $150 original offer to $250, but said it would be effective this year rather than retroactively. Base pay has been $8,200.

The spokeswoman for the teachers said no new meetings are scheduled, but they are ready to keep negotiating at any time.

Meanwhile, Trumbull County's strike continued as bargaining teams representing the Howland district's 272 teachers and its school board met Wednesday evening under the supervision of an impasse committee. The teachers then held a public informational meeting.

Supervisory and nonteaching personnel kept the classrooms open for Howland's 5,400 pupils.

Base pay for the Howland teachers was $8,450, school officials said.

The nine-member regents board oversees and coordinates spending at state-assisted colleges and universities.

Ironically, the board was a target of Rhodes during his 1974 campaign for governor. Rhodes charged that the regents had exceeded their authority and become too political.

But the Republican governor scrapped plans to strip the board of much of its power after making several appointments that gave him a theoretical majority.

Sweeney says his legislation has nothing to do with the political make-up of the higher education planning panel. Actually, Democrats are in the majority on the board, although most of the members owe their appointments to Rhodes.

"I don't think they have enough input from the legislature," Sweeney says. A longtime critic of the regents, Sweeney introduced similar legislation during the past session, but it was not acted upon.

Sweeney cited legislative disputes with the board over creation of new medical colleges in the state, capital construction projects, certification of medical school graduates from foreign countries and certification of out-of-state colleges offering courses in Ohio.

Presently, the two education chairmen serve as nonvoting members of regents board. In that capacity, they rarely attend monthly meetings.

More snow may be on the way toward Ohio as two weather systems work a squeeze play on the state.

One is a low pressure system located in southern Canada just north of Lake Superior and the other a low pressure disturbance in the northwestern Gulf of Mexico along the Texas coast.

The Canadian system was expected to move east southeastward while the Gulf disturbance pushed toward the east and northeast.

This movement was expected to bring both systems closer to Ohio and their associated snow areas threatened the state this afternoon. There is a greater likelihood of snow tonight with flurries expected to taper off Friday in all but the northeastern counties.

Skies cleared over the Ohio during the night, allowing temperatures to fall off sharply. By daybreak, lows around zero were common in the north while temperatures in the central and southern areas generally were under ten degrees. Only the Ohio River Valley managed lows in the teens.

The temperature drop during the night caused considerable dense fog to form locally throughout the state. The fog persisted several hours after sunrise.

Blaze Destroys Akron Factory

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — An 89-year-old manufacturing center was destroyed Wednesday by what Dist. Fire Chief Raymond Sharp called the worst blaze he has seen here in a quarter-century of service.

Wind-whipped flames towering 100 feet caused an estimated $2.1 million damage, injured two firemen and snarled traffic for hours.

Fire Chief Carl Best said the damage estimate included $800,000 for the contents of the building, headquarters for Famous Manufacturing Co., a firm employing 70 persons in its several local operations that included furnace supplies.

The company also has 17 branches in Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Firemen evacuated nearby businesses and a row of homes in the near-zero predawn cold but managed to control the fire within the block-long complex.

Best said the fire began in the basement but that its cause probably wouldn't be determined for several days. He added that failure of the second-floor sprinkler system that "either was frozen up or shut off" permitted the fire to spread throughout the dry, wooden interior.

The building, which once housed a book publishing operation, was the home of Pfeuffer Fishing Tackle Co. during the first half-century after its construction in 1888.

The fire cast a glow on the skyline visible for miles, sent smoke billowing over Akron throughout the day and caused a massive traffic jam that stretched at least one mile from the barricaded nearby expressway exit for a time, police said.

Jeanette Owen, 55, saw the flames and wondered at the location. She said she was sickened when she learned it was the complex in which she had worked for 26 years: "This place was a part of me."

Firemen escorted some employees into a portion of the building flames had not reached early Wednesday so they could save financial records. A short time later the area was enveloped in flames.

One fireman, who suffered smoke inhalation, was treated and released by a local hospital. Another was caught on a stairway by an explosive backdraft of fiery gases, but suffered only minor injury and was treated at the scene, fire officials said.

A third firefighter narrowly escaped injury when the rear wall of one section collapsed. Its bricks smashed to the ground within a yard of him, an official said, burying hoses and putting some of them out of operation for a time.

Officials said the flames were punctuated by a series of explosions as firemen arrived. The situation quickly escalated into a battle that ultimately involved 75 firefighters, they said. Others were called on a protective basis to take over the emptied stations in event other blazes broke out.

Gas Pinch May Close Some Schools

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Montgomery County schools should prepare for further cutbacks in natural gas, an official of Dayton Power and Light told representatives of 15 area school districts.

The meeting was called by Montgomery County School Supt. Raymond Hopper after it was announced that the schools DP&L serves would be cut 25 per cent in their gas allocations.

The situation is not yet considered critical, but Arnold Kierstead, of DP&L, warned Tuesday of harder times to come.

"We're in dire straits now. We are going down the tubes fast. We've got to do something to slow down the use of gas," said Kierstead.

He said that his company would ask the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio for permission to cut gas to schools with alternative fuel systems. There are 123 schools supplied by DP&L which could easily use another fuel, he said.

"It's not beyond the realm of possibility that you will have to set your school thermostats at 64 degrees," Kierstead told the superintendents. "You may have to curtail night activities and go to two or three days of classes a week."

Raymond Hopper, Montgomery County schools superintendent, said that most of the schools have set thermostats at 68 degrees the past three years and instituted other conservation measures.

"I don't see how we can cut any further," he said.

There reaches a point where the rooms are too cold for learning to continue, said John T. Lucas, Kettering superintendent.

Kierstead said the curtailments are necessary because of cutbacks in the company's supplies from the Columbia Transmission Corp. Columbia Gas of Ohio which also receives gas from Columbia Transmission has cut its allocations to schools 50 per cent.

Soviets Have Record Crop

MOSCOW (AP) — Agriculture Minister Valentin K. Mesyas announced today the Soviet Union harvested a record grain crop in 1976 totalling 223.8 million tons.

Soviet officials had said in October and again in the government's 1977 New Year's message that the crop was of record size, but Mesyas' announcement at a Moscow press conference gave the first definitive figure.

The total compares to the previous record of 222.5 million tons in 1973 and to the decade-low harvest of 140 million tons last year. Soviet officials credit good weather as the greatest factor for this year's bumper harvest, along with improved agricultural organization.

Mesyats said in reply to a question that the Soviet Union would meet its commitments to purchase grain abroad despite the good harvest. Under one such agreement, the Soviets are bound to buy six million tons of corn and grain each year from the United States until 1980.

The 1976 cotton crop as given by Mesyas was 8.3 million tons, about 100,000 tons short of the 1974 record and higher than the estimated target of 8.1 million tons.

Claudine Longet Sets Testimony At Trial

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Claudine Longet, saying she tries to block out the parade of potential jurors who think she killed her lover, will seek to prove her innocence by describing his last moments alive.

"To me this is all total despair," the 35-year-old Frenchborn entertainer told reporters softly as she left the courtroom Wednesday in this posh Rocky Mountain ski resort town.

Miss Longet, bundled in a rabbit-fur coat, said she bore no ill will toward her fellow Aspen residents for their views. "I appreciate their honesty," she said.

The only bright spot for her in three days of jury selection came Wednesday when a broadcasting executive called as a possible juror said he hopes Miss Longet is acquitted for her children's sake.

"It was the first sign of compassion that I've heard here," said Miss Longet, who has two sons and a daughter by her former husband, singer Andy Williams. He accompanied her to court on the first day and has been subpoenaed by the prosecution.

Miss Longet is charged with recklessly slaying champion skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich, who was shot fatally on March 21 in his $250,000 mountaintop chalet.

She told reporters she was cheered by "those people who come to me in the town and say, 'We're with you.'"

"I have gotten a tremendous amount of support on the street."

Defense attorney Charles V. Weedman said Wednesday that Miss

Coal Plant Fading Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Footing the bill for a coal conversion plant at New Athens, Ill., is an idea that has soured on the coal industry, says a federal Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA).

"Very frankly, we're probably talking... about a two-year delay. At the worst, the termination of the project completely," said Robert Porter, a spokesman for the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA).

A consortium of coal industry backers called Coalcon had planned to participate in construction of a $237 million coal gasification plant at New Athens, but technical problems were revealed last month and ERDA said cost estimates had risen to $440 million.

Because officials now are considering construction of a smaller test plant elsewhere before building the expensive New Athens facility, Porter said Tuesday that it would be "at least two years before anything is done at New Athens."

But he added that, "We are prepared to go ahead with the demonstration plant if industry support is forthcoming."

Blaze Destroys Akron Factory

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — An 89-year-old manufacturing center was destroyed Wednesday by what Dist. Fire Chief Raymond Sharp called the worst blaze he has seen here in a quarter-century of service.

Wind-whipped flames towering 100 feet caused an estimated $2.1 million damage, injured two firemen and snarled traffic for hours.

Fire Chief Carl Best said the damage estimate included $800,000 for the contents of the building, headquarters for Famous Manufacturing Co., a firm employing 70 persons in its several local operations that included furnace supplies.

The company also has 17 branches in Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Firemen evacuated nearby businesses and a row of homes in the near-zero predawn cold but managed to control the fire within the block-long complex.

Best said the fire began in the basement but that its cause probably wouldn't be determined for several days. He added that failure of the second-floor sprinkler system that "either was frozen up or shut off" permitted the fire to spread throughout the dry, wooden interior.

The building, which once housed a book publishing operation, was the home of Pflueger Fishing Tackle Co. during the first half-century after its construction in 1888.

The fire cast a glow on the skyline visible for miles, sent smoke billowing over Akron throughout the day and caused a massive traffic jam that stretched at least one mile from the barricaded nearby expressway exit for a time, police said.

Jeanette Owen, 55, saw the flames and wondered at the location. She said she was sickened when she learned it was the complex in which she had worked for 26 years: "This place was a part of me."

Firemen escorted some employees into a portion of the building flames had not reached early Wednesday so they could save financial records. A short time later the area was enveloped in flames.

One fireman, who suffered smoke inhalation, was treated and released by a local hospital. Another was caught on a stairway by an explosive backdraft of fiery gases, but suffered only minor injury and was treated at the scene, fire officials said.

A third firefighter narrowly escaped injury when the rear wall of one section collapsed. Its bricks smashed to the ground within a yard of him, an official said, burying hoses and putting some of them out of operation for a time.

Officials said the flames were punctuated by a series of explosions as firemen arrived. The situation quickly escalated into a battle that ultimately involved 75 firefighters, they said. Others were called on a protective basis to take over the emptied stations in event other blazes broke out.

Gas Pinch May Close Some Schools

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Montgomery County schools should prepare for further cutbacks in natural gas, an official of Dayton Power and Light told representatives of 15 area school districts.

The meeting was called by Montgomery County School Supt. Raymond Hopper after it was announced that the schools DP&L serves would be cut 25 per cent in their gas allocations.

The situation is not yet considered critical, but Arnold Kierstead, of DP&L, warned Tuesday of harder times to come.

"We're in dire straits now. We are going down the tubes fast. We've got to do something to slow down the use of gas," said Kierstead.

He said that his company would ask the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio for permission to cut gas to schools with alternative fuel systems. There are 123 schools supplied by DP&L which could easily use another fuel, he said.

"It's not beyond the realm of possibility that you will have to set your school thermostats at 64 degrees," Kierstead told the superintendents. "You may have to curtail night activities and go to two or three days of classes a week."

Raymond Hopper, Montgomery County schools superintendent, said that most of the schools have set thermostats at 68 degrees the past three years and instituted other conservation measures.

"I don't see how we can cut any further," he said.

There reaches a point where the rooms are too cold for learning to continue, said John T. Lucas, Kettering superintendent.

Kierstead said the curtailments are necessary because of cutbacks in the company's supplies from the Columbia Transmission Corp. Columbia Gas of Ohio which also receives gas from Columbia Transmission has cut its allocations to schools 50 per cent.

Soviets Have Record Crop

MOSCOW (AP) — Agriculture Minister Valentin K. Mesyats announced today the Soviet Union harvested a record grain crop in 1976 totalling 223.8 million tons.

Soviet officials had said in October and again in the government's 1977 New Year's message that the crop was of record size, but Mesyats' announcement at a Moscow press conference gave the first definitive figure.

The total compares to the previous record of 222.5 million tons in 1973 and to the decade-low harvest of 140 million tons last year. Soviet officials credit good weather as the greatest factor for this year's bumper harvest, along with improved agricultural organization.

Mesyats said in reply to a question that the Soviet Union would meet its commitments to purchase grain abroad despite the good harvest. Under one such agreement, the Soviets are bound to buy six million tons of corn and grain each year from the United States until 1980.

The 1976 cotton crop as given by Mesyats was 8.3 million tons, about 100,000 tons short of the 1974 record and higher than the estimated target of 8.1 million tons.

Claudine Longet Sets Testimony At Trial

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Claudine Longet, saying she tries to block out the parade of potential jurors who think she killed her lover, will seek to prove her innocence by describing his last moments alive.

"To me this is all total despair," the 35-year-old Frenchborn entertainer told reporters softly as she left the courtroom Wednesday in this posh Rocky Mountain ski resort town.

Miss Longet, bundled in a rabbit-fur coat, said she bore no ill will toward her fellow Aspen residents for their views. "I appreciate their honesty," she said.

The only bright spot for her in three days of jury selection came Wednesday when a broadcasting executive called as a possible juror said he hopes Miss Longet is acquitted for her children's sake.

"It was the first sign of compassion that I've heard here," said Miss Longet, who has two sons and a daughter by her former husband, singer Andy Williams. He accompanied her to court on the first day and has been subpoenaed by the prosecution.

She told reporters she was cheered by "those people who come to me in the town and say, 'We're with you.'"

"I have gotten a tremendous amount of support on the street."

Defense attorney Charles V. Weedman said Wednesday that Miss

Longet would testify at the trial that the shooting was "a simple tragic accident and nothing more."

A 12-member jury has been tentatively seated and is expected to be sworn in by the start of next week.

If convicted, Miss Longet could spend 10 years in the state penitentiary and pay a $30,000 fine.

In the Pitkin County Courthouse, her only support among potential jurors was from Revell Fox.

"I have to be candid," Fox told state District Court Judge George E. Lohr. "This is not based on fact or fiction. There is a gut feeling I just hope that Mrs. Williams as the mother of three children is not found guilty ... I'm a very strong family man."

2 Men In Running For No. 2 Ag Spot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Candidates for the No. 2 job at the Agriculture Department in the Carter administration may have been narrowed to two names, although other possibilities continue to surface.

Michael R. McLeod, general counsel and staff director of the Senate Agriculture Committee, was said by several sources Wednesday to be the front runner for the post.

But others close to the Carter team and on Capitol Hill said there is some support for John White, Texas Commissioner of Agriculture, who campaigned vigorously in the state for Carter last fall.

Order Utility To Rebate Some Money

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio issued two decisions Wednesday on rebate payments by Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., one of which will return a small amount to C&SOE customers.

PUCO members ordered C&SOE to pay customers an average of about 3.5 cents credit each within the next two months as a result of a fuel adjustment overcharge.

But the commission also said the utility does not have to pay rebates to customers according to changing coal prices at its subsidiary mines. The action relieved the utility of restitution to consumers that could have amounted to several million dollars.

The rebate payment that was approved involves an overcharge totalling $48,245 for fuel adjustment during August, September and October. A spokesman for the company said that C&SOE recommended the credit after taking inventory.

The C&SOE spokesman said the credit represents coal charged for, but never sold to customers.

The amount will be divided equally among all 350,000 of the electric company's customers and is approximately .00007 of a dollar per kilowatt hour, a PUCO spokesman said.

The average homeowner uses about 500 kilowatt hours of electricity a month. Those with all electric homes use about 2,000 kilowatt hours, the spokesman said.

Gas Impact Data Sought

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes asked state utilities and energy officials Wednesday to analyze the impact of natural gas curtailments to Ohio's industrial and heavy commercial users.

In duplicate letters to Public Utilities Commission Chairman C. Luther Heckman and Robert S. Ryan, director of the Ohio Energy Resources and Development Agency, Rhodes noted that state law empowers him to declare an energy crisis if conditions warrant.

Earlier this week, Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., which already has drastically cut supplies to heavy industries, asked for permission to curtail supplies for schools, small manufacturers, and other medium users by 10 to 30 per cent. Columbia is Ohio's biggest natural gas supplier, and serves 62 of the state's 88 counties.

Among other things, Rhodes asked the two officials to make recommendations as to what actions they feel he should take under the laws of Ohio, and include in their impact analysis a review of the availability of alternate fuels.

"The analysis should include your findings regarding impact on employment, disruption of school programs, and projected natural gas supplies for the next three months," Rhodes' letter said.

Further, one of them said that while McLeod may be a prime candidate, his nomination is "by no means" assured. The source, while declining to be specific, said McLeod "does not have the full confidence" of at least one or two of Carter's closest aides.

Rep. Bob Bergland, D-Minn., has been designated by Carter to be his secretary of agriculture.

Bergland said this week that he expects some decisions will be made soon on other top jobs in USDA. Carter, he said, will make the final decision on filling the No. 2 post.

The job at hand is deputy secretary of agriculture, previously called undersecretary until Congress changed the title late last year. It pays $44,600 a year against the secretary's salary of $63,000.

One source said that an important reason McLeod is a leading candidate is that in his present capacity he has worked closely with Sen. Herman D. Talmadge, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee and other members of the panel.

Thus, McLeod's expertise is viewed as a valuable potential asset to Bergland when the Carter administration proposes new farm legislation later this year. Bergland is a member of the House Agriculture Committee and is an expert on its moods.

Five other senior USDA posts will have to be filled, too. Those are assistant secretaries who traditionally oversee various functions of USDA, including economics, rural development and consumer services. Those jobs pay $39,900 a year.

One of the most important of the five is assistant secretary for international affairs and commodity programs which embraces farm exports and foreign market development.

However, the USDA usually undergoes a reorganization with changes in administrations so it is not clear at this time how Bergland may want to shift responsibilities among the assistant secretaries.

Other names circulated for possible senior jobs in the department include at least two that had been mentioned as possible secretary of agriculture before Carter selected Bergland.

Those include Dr. Charles R. Sayre, Greenwood, Miss., president of a farmer-owned cotton cooperative; and Dr. Clifton Wharton Jr., president of Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Sneek-A-Peek

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Children who enjoy the natural sciences will be especially interested in this week's new books, which answer a variety of questions for curious young minds.

"Time", a Ready-to Book, is one of a new Grosset and Dunlap series directed toward preschoolers and primary students. In this volume, children are asked to distinguish between day and night, seasons of the year, past versus future, etc. Large brightly colored drawings do most of the teaching, but the last page offers helpful hints for parents and teachers.

For an early start on understanding conservation of natural resources try "World, World, What Can I Do?" A rhymed question and answer dialogue and softly tinted illustrations make the lesson digestible for tots, although older persons may find the verse stiff and saccharine.

Older children concerned about conservation will find "Our Dirty Land" informative reading. Here, the author discusses land pollution caused by litter, solid waste, stripmining, pesticides and clear-cutting. (Grades 4-6)

Speaking of natural resources — if you want to learn more about using our oldest one, read "Harnessing the Sun; the Story of Solar Energy". Author David Knight describes past and present work in the field of solar energy and speculates about its future.

Prospective zoologists will want to browse through "The Shark Book", which describes characteristics and types of sharks, shark attacks and defenses, and shark fishing. Lots of pictures!

Another new book about marine life is "The Shell Book", a picture book useful in identifying your beach specimens. The text also provides information about the mollusk phylum (giving scientific and common names of classes and species), and offers suggestions for collecting and cleaning shells.

You can have fun and surprise your friends while doing the experiments outlined in "The Optical Illusion Book". Also learn how your eye works, why you see optical illusions, and how various kinds of illusions are created.

"Want more experiments? Try 'More Brain-boosters', a book after a mad scientist's own heart! Discover all sorts of puzzles, riddles, and fun experiments including ice, water, noise, and kitchen chemistry. Measuring arm strength with a bathroom scale, taking fingerprints, and making a clock are only a few of the activities described in "More Brain Boosters".

If you have an inquisitive mind, don't let curiosity kill the cat. Come visit us in the library and find answers to your questions!

Sneek-A-Peek AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Children who enjoy the natural sciences will be especially interested in this week's new books, which answer a variety of questions for curious young minds.

"Time", a Ready-to Book, is one of a new Grosset and Dunlap series directed toward preschoolers and primary students. In this volume, children are asked to distinguish between day and night, seasons of the year, past versus future, etc. Large brightly colored drawings do most of the teaching, but the last page offers helpful hints for parents and teachers.

For an early start on understanding conservation of natural resources try "World, World, What Can I Do?" A rhymed question and answer dialogue and softly tinted illustrations make the lesson digestible for tots, although

Top MAC Cagers Post Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There were few surprises in Mid-American Conference basketball Wednesday night, with the top three teams maintaining their dominance and the hard luck squads unable to break the ice.

Western Michigan, Miami and Toledo, who finished in the top three spots respectively in the MAC last season, all kept the pace by taking their contests. Western Michigan beat Northern Illinois by the surprisingly close score of 50-45, Miami overtook Kent State 66-63 and Toledo easily overcame Ohio University 82-66.

But it was Bowling Green that provided the fireworks on the MAC slate. The Falcons demolished Eastern Michigan by a score of 103-62. They broke a 2-2 tie in the first minute of play to coast to a 25-point spread by the half. Five Bowling Green players were in double figures, led by guard Tommy Harris.

In the other MAC game Central Michigan edged past Ball State 71-69.

Western Michigan, which set the pace last year with a 15-1 conference record, had to struggle for its low scoring victory over Northern Illinois. A late rally led by guard Marty Murray saved the defending conference champs.

Northern's Matt Hicks, who led all scorers with 28 points, was stymied during the crucial final minutes of the contest. "We have a tendency to loose our poise and not be patient," said John McDougal, Northern Illinois' first-year coach. "Everytime we lose, it just makes it harder."

Miami, last year's runnerup, also had its troubles in overcoming Kent State in the conference opener for both teams. It took a pair of free throws by John Shoemaker and Chuck Goodyear in the last 14 seconds to ensure the Redskins' victory. Goodyear was high man for Miami with 19 points, while sophomore Burrell McGhee had a season-high 27 points for the Golden Flashes.

"Miami played very smart, poised basketball," said Kent State Coach Rex Hughes. "They did the things they had to do to make free throws and hold onto the ball to win."

Toledo had an easier time with the Bobcats from Ohio University. The Rockets saw a 12-point halftime spread shrink to a one point separation in the second half. But they rallied to pull ahead 58-50 with 7:57 remaining.

"I thought in the first half we played very good basketball," said Toledo Coach Bob Nichols. "In the second half you've got to give them credit because they made a run at us."

Bobcats coach Dale Bandy said a lapse in defense cost Ohio the game. "We had good execution in the first half," he said, "but in the second half we couldn't guard their offense."

Central Michigan coach Dick Parfitt said his squad's victory over Ball State was "a tremendous win. I thought we were more aggressive than they were throughout the entire game, but they really hustled at the end."

Ball State mentor Jim Holstein said poor shooting was a problem for his Cardinals. "We played some decent basketball, but it just came down to shooting," he said. "You can't continually shoot 42 or 43 per cent and expect to win."

In other games involving Ohio teams, second-ranked Cincinnati won its 10th in a row, defeating Temple 61-46 in a nonconference game, behind the second half shooting of Robert Miller. The 6-foot-10 center was held scoreless in the first half. But he ignited a second half rally with a 14-point performance.

"Bob didn't play well in the first half," Cincinnati coach Gale Catlett said of Miller. "But we adjusted in the second half and it helped Bob get inside. At halftime, I was totally depressed with our performance."

Temple outshot Cincinnati 46 per cent to 31 per cent in the first half to forge 23-23 tie at the break.

Elsewhere, in Ohio Conference action, Kenyon overcame Wooster 73-71 as Tim Appleton dumped in the deciding basket with nine seconds to go. Otterbein also forged a two-point margin of victory, turning back Marietta 72-70. In a third Ohio Conference game, Mount Union combined a 27-point showing by Dave Scarpitti with a 62 per cent shooting average to defeat Ohio Northern 85-81.

In a Hoosier-Buckeye Conference matchup, Defiance came from behind for an 82-74 overtime win against Findlay.

In other nonconference action, Xavier outclassed Campbellsville, Ky. 82-56, Cleveland State turned back Akron 71-70, Youngstown edged Northern Iowa 48-46 and Westminster (Pa.) beat Baldwin-Wallace 84-68.

Black Hawks Beat Sabres

By FRANK BROWN

AP Sports Writer

On Dec. 22, Bill White recalled, he replaced Billy Reay as coach of the Chicago Black Hawks.

White said "I don't think anyone had his heart in the game," when Chicago was beaten 4-2 by the Buffalo Sabres.

"To say the least," White continued, "when Buffalo played here on Dec. 22, it was not the nicest of nights."

Wednesday night, the Black Hawks got another shot at the Sabres and skated away with a 2-1 triumph. Make that Skated, with a capital S.

"We are skating better now. For some reason — and I've never been able to discover why — it's easier to skate when you win," White said.

And the Black Hawks have been winning since White took over. Mired in a month-long 12-game winless streak when Reay departed, Chicago is unbeaten in five games after beating Buffalo for the first time in the regular season since March, 1975.

"As a team, we're playing better," says goalie Tony Esposito. "All of a sudden, everybody wants to work hard. Tonight everybody was working and moving, which made my job a little easier."

Ivan Boldirev scored both Chicago goals. He beat Buffalo goalie Gerry Desjardins with a five-footer with 2:43 left in the first period, then tipped in a Bob Murray shot for a 2-0 lead at 4:40 of the third period. Rene Robert hit for Buffalo with 10:25 remaining.

In the other NHL games Wednesday night, Philadelphia and the New York Rangers skated to a 4-4 tie; Atlanta defeated Vancouver 4-1; Boston trimmed Cleveland 3-2; Minnesota handled Los Angeles 5-2, and Toronto outscored Colorado 6-4.

Vikings Eye Raiders Defense

LOS ANGELES (AP) — What Minnesota is running into in Super Bowl XI is what the Vikings always run into when National Football League championships are at stake — trouble.

In three previous Super Bowls, against Kansas City, Miami and Pittsburgh, the Vikings have scored three touchdowns — one per game. First it was the Chiefs' Multiple Defense.

Then it was the Dolphins' NoName Defense.

Then it was the Steelers' Steel Curtain Defense.

And now, along come the Oakland Raiders and ...

... and what? Their Dirty Defense?

The Raiders have been accused of stepping beyond the bounds of legality, most particularly safety George Atkinson, who gave Pittsburgh's Lynn Swann a concussion and New England's Russ Francis a broken nose.

The Vikings seem split on just how close Oakland gets to below-the-belt tactics. In fact, even the Raiders themselves don't seem to be able to make up their minds.

"We have the reputation for playing dirty, but I don't think it's deserving," said Atkinson. "Sure, we're an aggressive ball club, but you don't get to the Super Bowl, you don't go 15-1, by being a dirty ball club."

Atkinson insists he plays within the rules, but he also seems to lean a bit toward that anything-to-get-the-job-done view.

"I play aggressive football.... In this game you're either passive or aggressive. Defensive players have to be aggressive," Atkinson said. "I have an area to protect. When someone comes into that area, it's like a burglar coming into your house. What are you going to do? You've got to have what we call a mean streak."

Wally Hilgenberg, the Vikings' starting linebacker, seemed to exemplify Minnesota's "so what?" sort of attitude when the question of Oakland's cleanliness arose.

"I realize the Raiders are coming into this game with the reputation of throwing cheap shots," Hilgenberg said. "But that doesn't concern me. A lot of this talk is built up.... We are not going to be intimidated by it."

"And if they really are cheap-shot artists," Hilgenberg added, "they're just going to end up hurting themselves."

Minnesota Coach Bud Grant brushes aside references to Oakland's aggressive play. He is not one to fan the fires of enthusiasm.

"Atkinson made a mistake and he paid for his mistake," Grant said of the forearm to the back of Swann's helmet that kayoed the Pittsburgh pass-catcher in the season's opening game.

Atkinson was not penalized in the game for clobbering Swann. The hit occurred away from the play. But after the league took a look at the game films, he was slapped with a $1,500 fine. Had he been ejected from the game for his actions, a fine would have been automatic.

Port Huron Defeated By Columbus Owls

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two goals apiece from John Flesch, Steve Lyon and Willy Trognitz helped the Columbus Owls blank Port Huron Wednesday night in a 9-0 International Hockey League victory.

In other IHL action, Toledo defeated Fort Wayne 6-4, Dayton edged Muskegon 4-3, and the Kalamazoo Wings took a night off from league action to win an exhibition game with the Russian Spartak team, 7-6.

Star Quarterback Battling Cancer

HONOLULU (AP) — Joe Roth, the University of California's star quarterback, says he still hopes to be chosen by the pros despite revelations that he is battling for his life against a virulent form of cancer.

"I've been drafted pretty high," said Roth in his Waikiki hotel late Wednesday. "But I'll just take a wait and see attitude."

Roth, 21, who was chosen for three bowl games, confirmed that he has been receiving chemotherapy at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco since several lumps under the skin on his chest were diagnosed in December as black mole cancer or malignant melanoma.

Circleville Invades Lion Country Friday

It will be back to the hardwood for Circleville Friday night when the Tigers travel to Washington C. H. to meet the Blue Lions.

The Red and Black cagers will be invading Lion country in a game that is crucial to both squads in the race for the South Central Ohio League crown.

A look at the league standings finds Washington C.H. with a 3-1 mark while the Tigers stand even at 2-2.

Both have lost to a tough Wilmington squad and another setback on either side could make it a rocky road from here on in.

"The Blue Lions present a great challenge to our defense as they are very quick, excellent shooters and are good offensive rebounders," Circleville coach Jim Bailey commented. Washington will use a fast break to good advantage and will free lance a lot off the dribble. When they set up it is usually a 2-1-2 with a high post or a double guard set with a stack on either side.

On defense the Lions like a man to man operation and will also use a 1-2-1-1 full court trap or a 2-2-1 three-quarter court trap.

The Lions will probably start Tom Dean, Wilson, John Denen, Sam McClendon and Dee Foster.

It will be Frank Merrill and Tom Taylor at the guards for Circleville, Brent Wright at center with Toren Bensonhaver at one forward post and Tim Milstead and Eric Pontious sharing the other.

Bruce Jenner Named Top Male Athlete

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bruce Jenner, who captivated the crowd at the 1976 Olympics with his gold medal performance in the grueling decathlon competition, was named Male Athlete

of the Year by The Associated Press today.

Jenner, a 27-year-old graduate of tiny Graceland (Iowa) College, earned the AP honor with a world record total of 8,618 points in the two-day, 10-event competition at the Montreal Olympics.

He received 237 votes from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters, easily beating Tony Dorsett, the University of Pittsburgh's record-breaking running back, who finished with 105. Cincinnati Reds second baseman Joe Morgan, the National League's Most Valuable Player for the second straight year, finished third with 47, and another American Olympic hero, swimmer John Naber, was fourth with 23.

Others finishing high in the voting were pro football's O.J. Simpson and Walter Payton; baseball's Mark Fidrych, Thurman Munson and Johnny Bench; pro basketball player Dave Cowens, tennis star Jimmy Connors and heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali.

Jenner is the 46th winner of the award which was originated in 1931. He and Nadia Comaneci of Romania, AP Female Athlete, will be honored in the spring at the Tampa, Fla., Sports Club's annual dinner.

Jenner's performance in the Olympics was a personal vindication for the 6-foot-2, 195-pound athlete who had finished 10th in the decathlon competition at the 1972 Games in Munich. The winner that year was Nikolai Avilov, whose total of 8,454 points set a record.

After Avilov clinched the 1972 gold, Jenner walked up to him.

"Next time," the American athlete said, "I'm going to beat you."

He proved to be a man of his word and Avilov had to be satisfied with the bronze medal at Montreal.

The most unusual World Series rally occurred in 1929. The Philadelphia Athletics were trailing 8-0 in the bottom of the eighth inning and scored 10 runs for a 10-8 win over the Chicago Cubs.

Top MAC Cagers Post Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There were few surprises in Mid-American Conference basketball Wednesday night, with the top three teams maintaining their dominance and the hard luck squads unable to break the ice.

Western Michigan, Miami and Toledo, who finished in the top three spots respectively in the MAC last season, all kept the pace by taking their contests. Western Michigan beat Northern Illinois by the surprisingly close score of 50-45, Miami overtook Kent State 66-63 and Toledo easily overcame Ohio University 82-66.

But it was Bowling Green that provided the fireworks on the MAC slate. The Falcons demolished Eastern Michigan by a score of 103-62. They broke a 2-2 tie in the first minute of play to coast to a 25-point spread by the half. Five Bowling Green players were in double figures, led by guard Tommy Harris.

In the other MAC game Central Michigan edged past Ball State 71-69.

Western Michigan, which set the pace last year with a 15-1 conference record, had to struggle for its low scoring victory over Northern Illinois. A late rally led by guard Marty Murray saved the defending conference champs.

Northern's Matt Hicks, who led all scorers with 28 points, was stymied during the crucial final minutes of the contest. "We have a tendency to loose our poise and not be patient," said John McDougal, Northern Illinois' first-year coach. "Everytime we lose, it just makes it harder."

Miami, last year's runnerup, also had its troubles in overcoming Kent State in the conference opener for both teams. It took a pair of free throws by John Shoemaker and Chuck Goodyear in the last 14 seconds to ensure the Redskins' victory. Goodyear was high man for Miami with 19 points, while sophomore Burrell McGhee had a season-high 27 points for the Golden Flashes.

"Miami played very smart, poised basketball," said Kent State Coach Rex Hughes. "They did the things they had to do to make free throws and hold onto the ball to win."

Toledo had an easier time with the Bobcats from Ohio University. The Rockets saw a 12-point halftime spread shrink to a one point separation in the second half. But they rallied to pull ahead 58-50 with 7:57 remaining.

"I thought in the first half we played very good basketball," said Toledo Coach Bob Nichols. "In the second half you've got to give them credit because they made a run at us."

Black Hawks Beat Sabres

By FRANK BROWN

AP Sports Writer

On Dec. 22, Bill White recalled, he replaced Billy Reay as coach of the Chicago Black Hawks.

White said "I don't think anyone had his heart in the game," when Chicago was beaten 4-2 by the Buffalo Sabres.

"To say the least," White continued, "when Buffalo played here on Dec. 22, it was not the nicest of nights."

Wednesday night, the Black Hawks got another shot at the Sabres and skated away with a 2-1 triumph. Make that Skated, with a capital S.

"We are skating better now. For some reason — and I've never been able to discover why — it's easier to skate when you win," White said.

And the Black Hawks have been winning since White took over. Mired in a month-long 12-game winless streak when Reay departed, Chicago is unbeaten in five games after beating Buffalo for the first time in the regular season since March, 1975.

"As a team, we're playing better," says goalie Tony Esposito. "All of a sudden, everybody wants to work hard. Tonight everybody was working and moving, which made my job a little easier."

Ivan Boldirev scored both Chicago goals. He beat Buffalo goalie Gerry Desjardins with a five-footer with 2:43 left in the first period, then tipped in a Bob Murray shot for a 2-0 lead at 4:40 of the third period. Rene Robert hit for Buffalo with 10:25 remaining.

In the other NHL games Wednesday night, Philadelphia and the New York Rangers skated to a 4-4 tie; Atlanta defeated Vancouver 4-1; Boston trimmed Cleveland 3-2; Minnesota handled Los Angeles 5-2, and Toronto outscored Colorado 6-4.

In other NBA games, Washington pounded the New York Nets 107-92; Philadelphia whipped Los Angeles 117-94; Detroit stopped Phoenix 118-115; Indiana routed Chicago 109-94; Houston nipped the New York Knicks 108-107; San Antonio trimmed Denver 137-133 and Seattle nipped Boston 94-93.

Circleville Invades Lion Country Friday

It will be back to the hardwood for Circleville Friday night when the Tigers travel to Washington C. H. to meet the Blue Lions.

The Red and Black cagers will be invading Lion country in a game that is crucial to both squads in the race for the South Central Ohio League crown.

A look at the league standings finds Washington C.H. with a 3-1 mark while the Tigers stand even at 2-2.

Both have lost to a tough Wilmington squad and another setback on either side could make it a rocky road from here on in.

"The Blue Lions present a great challenge to our defense as they are very quick, excellent shooters and are good offensive rebounders," Circleville coach Jim Bailey commented. Washington will use a fast break to good advantage and will free lance a lot off the dribble. When they set up it is usually a 2-1-2 with a high post or a double guard set with a stack on either side.

On defense the Lions like a man to man operation and will also use a 1-2-1-1 full court trap or a 2-2-1 three-quarter court trap.

The Lions will probably start Tom Dean, Wilson, John Denen, Sam McClendon and Dee Foster.

It will be Frank Merrill and Tom Taylor at the guards for Circleville, Brent Wright at center with Toren Bensonhaver at one forward post and Tim Milstead and Eric Pontious sharing the other.

Bruce Jenner Named Top Male Athlete

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bruce Jenner, who captivated the crowd at the 1976 Olympics with his gold medal performance in the grueling decathlon competition, was named Male Athlete

of the Year by The Associated Press today.

Jenner, a 27-year-old graduate of tiny Graceland (Iowa) College, earned the AP honor with a world record total of 8,618 points in the two-day, 10-event competition at the Montreal Olympics.

He received 237 votes from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters, easily beating Tony Dorsett, the University of Pittsburgh's record-breaking running back, who finished with 105. Cincinnati Reds second baseman Joe Morgan, the National League's Most Valuable Player for the second straight year, finished third with 47, and another American Olympic hero, swimmer John Naber, was fourth with 23.

Others finishing high in the voting were pro football's O.J. Simpson and Walter Payton; baseball's Mark Fidrych, Thurman Munson and Johnny Bench; pro basketball player Dave Cowens, tennis star Jimmy Connors and heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali.

Jenner is the 46th winner of the award which was originated in 1931. He and Nadia Comaneci of Romania, AP Female Athlete, will be honored in the spring at the Tampa, Fla., Sports Club's annual dinner.

Jenner's performance in the Olympics was a personal vindication for the 6-foot-2, 195-pound athlete who had finished 10th in the decathlon competition at the 1972 Games in Munich. The winner that year was Nikolai Avilov, whose total of 8,454 points set a record.

After Avilov clinched the 1972 gold, Jenner walked up to him.

"Next time," the American athlete said, "I'm going to beat you."

He proved to be a man of his word and Avilov had to be satisfied with the bronze medal at Montreal.

The most unusual World Series rally occurred in 1929. The Philadelphia Athletics were trailing 8-0 in the bottom of the eighth inning and scored 10 runs for a 10-8 win over the Chicago Cubs.

Little Tigers Crush UA Jones, 60-6

Circleville's freshman wrestling squad overwhelmed Upper Arlington Jones, 60-6, Wednesday on the losers' mats.

"It was an outstanding team effort as we moved well and were the sharpest we have been all year," Circleville coaches Dale Harger and Dick Walters stated.

The Tiger freshmen will be at Lancaster Friday.

Here are the results of the match with Upper Arlington:

90-pounds — Miller (C) decisioned Ryan (UA) 6-2.

95-pounds — Chelikowsky (C) pinned Sugar (UA) in 0:59.

100-pounds — Wilkins (C) pinned Bowman (UA) in 0:24.

Junk Can Make Reefs For Fish

DAUPHIN ISLAND, Ala. (AP) — Men can't make the glorious coral reefs of the undersea world, but for a substitute they can take a junk car or a heap of old tires, drop them in the water and call them "fish havens."

Red snappers hardly know the difference.

The state of Alabama discovered this 30 years ago and promptly dropped about 1,500 old car bodies off the Gulf of Mexico coast. Snappers and groupers turned up in droves. So did deep sea fishermen.

"Alabama was the first state to make these fish reefs," said Conservation Department biologist Hugh Swingle. "It was primarily to attract red snapper and grouper, and it did."

"The only time you find good concentrations of snapper and grouper is when you have a rough bottom, a coral reef, rocks or something like that," he said. "The problem here is that in this area the sea bottom is like the top of a pool table."

Thus: fish havens.

Now, to create a legal fish haven off the Alabama coast, it is necessary to get a permit from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Most such permits are sought by the State Conservation Department, but the department also will sponsor individuals who have a backyard full of old tires and a yen to find some fat, tasty snapper.

Over the years, said Swingle, thousands of tires and cars have been sunk off the Alabama coast along with "five liberty ships, three barges and some tugs. About 1950, we sank a wooden dry dock that was from the Port of Mobile."

The fish havens, he said, aren't located in areas where shrimpers trawl or oystermen gather shellfish. But he added, "We'd like to stretch them all the way from the Alabama line to the Florida line."

The havens might seem like an underwater junkyard to some, but to grouper and snapper they are a handy place to meet and dine.

For a novice fisherman, it may not be easy to orient oneself around fish havens. They are not necessarily easy to find.

Buoys were placed to mark a few, but the buoys have a way of drifting or breaking loose.

If the buoy is lost, a bit of shipboard wizardry helps find the fish havens. It is called the Loran directional radio, and it involves nautical maps and the triangulation of points at sea.

All that is very complicated, of course, and some old salts just rely on their nose.

Buddy Smith, an outdoors writer for the Mobile Press Register, tells of a boat captain who used a giant sea turtle to mark his favorite fish haven.

The sea turtle, explained Smith, had taken a liking to the fish haven and hung out there.

The cooler months are the best months for snapper fishing, with cigar minnows or cut mullet or bonita used as bait.

The snapper may range from one pound to 20 pounds, and they are all right there at the fish haven, thanks to your friendly junkyard.

Miller Eyes Phoenix Open Win

PHOENIX (AP) — It is a new beginning for Johnny Miller.

"I don't want this to sound the wrong way, but with me, playing good is mostly mental," Miller said before teeing off today in the first round of the $200,000 Phoenix Open, the kickoff event for the 1977 pro golf tour.

"The way it's worked the last couple of seasons, I come out like gangbusters, win two or three in a row at the start of the year. And then I kind of lose interest."

"At the start of the year it's different. It's been a good winter, good holidays. I'm rested and ready to go. It's the start of a new year, a new beginning. All that sort of thing. You come out all pumped up, anxious to get a good start on the year."

And, for the last three years, the Phoenix Open and next week's Tucson Open have served as the keystone tournaments to Miller's remarkable success. He has played those two tournaments better than anyone in history.

In the last three years, he has won five of the six tour events in the Arizona desert. He has put together rounds of 61 at both Tucson and the 6,726-yard, par-71 Phoenix Country Club course. He has flirted with a score in the 50's — a mark that has yet to be achieved on the American tour. He once won Phoenix with a 260 total, the lowest score in any tour event in more than two decades.

"It's the grass," he explained. "The fairways are just so good that you can't get a bad lie. And if you give me a good lie, I'm going to hit it close to the hole."

Putting, however, could be the key in this tournament, which carries a $40,000 first prize.

"You know you have to have some very low numbers to do any good in this tournament," said Hubert Green. "So that puts a lot of pressure on your putting."

Miller, winner of two American tournaments and the British Open last year, and Green, winner of three tour titles, head the strong field that has assembled for the start of the long, rich 1977 tour.

Other standouts include the holders of the Masters, U.S. Open and PGA crowns — Ray Floyd, Jerry Pate and Dave Stockton — defending champion Bob Gilder and a total of 15 of the top 20 money-winners from the 1976 season. Among those are Hale Irwin, J.C. Snead, Don January, Mark Hayes, Tom Watson, Tom Weiskopf, Rik Massengale, Roger Maltbie, Dave Hill and Tom Kite.

Roosevelt Raceway in Westbury, N.Y., sought to spur attendance during its fall harness race meeting by cutting back to $2 wagers on exactas. They had been $3.

In the opening 1968 World Series game, Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals fanned 17 Detroit Tigers to erase Sandy Koufax's mark of 15.

Villanova Defeats Notre Dame, 64-62

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Will the real Notre Dame basketball team please stand up?

At the start of the season, the Fighting Irish couldn't lose. Now they can't win.

After winning their first seven games, including victories on the road over Maryland and UCLA, Notre Dame has lost three straight — including Wednesday night's 64-62 defeat by Villanova.

"We've been turning the ball over too much," said Notre Dame Coach Doug Phelps, who has seen his Irish drop from No. 2 to No. 8 in the national rankings and will no doubt see them drop even more.

Phelps had some solace, at least, in that the Irish were competitive for a change. They were routed by Kentucky and Princeton before Wednesday night's close one.

"I was happy to see us get back into the game," Phelps noted.

Elsewhere in college basketball, second-ranked Cincinnati whipped Temple 61-46; fourth-ranked Alabama stopped Florida 83-71; No. 6 North Carolina drubbed No. 16 Clemson 91-63; No. 10 Wake Forest defeated Virginia 67-63; No. 17 Providence edged St. Joseph's, Pa., 65-64 and 19th-ranked Syracuse beat Fordham 87-68.

Keith Herron scored 19 points and brother Larry had 11 as Villanova upset Notre Dame. Notre Dame's Dave Batton hit the side of the rim with a corner shot with just two seconds remaining as the Irish missed tying the game at the end.

Robert Miller and Gary Yoder each scored 14 points as Cincinnati won its 10th straight game before a crowd of 9,256, largest ever to see a basketball contest at Riverfront Coliseum. The 10-0 start is the Bearcats' best since 1963's NCAA runnersup won their first 19 games.

Robert Scott's six straight points gave Alabama some breathing room at the end over hot-shooting Florida. The Crimson Tide, 11-0, survived 71 per cent shooting by the Gators in the first half.

Phil Ford scored 20 points to lead North Carolina past Clemson in an Atlantic Coast Conference game. The Tar Heels played the second half without Coach Dean Smith, who was ejected just before intermission after incurring three technicals.

Wake Forest fell behind 16-6 in the first six minutes but rallied behind Rod Griffin to beat Virginia. Bruce Campbell's free throw with one second remaining enabled Providence to defeat St. Joseph's. Jim Williams 18 points led Syracuse past Fordham.

When the New York Yankees beat the Milwaukee Braves in the third game of the 1957 World Series, Yankee rookie Tony Kubek hit two home runs. Kubek's father was in the stands.

Eisner And White Top OAC Cagers

CLEVELAND (AP) — Kenyon's Evan Eisner and Wittenberg's Rick White have been chosen as this week's Ohio Athletic Conference basketball stars.

The 5-foot-9 Eisner, a senior from Pittsburgh, Pa., won Most Valuable Player honors in the Colonial City Classic, hitting his first 14 field goal attempts and scoring a tournament record 32 points in an opening round victory over Thomas Moore. He added 15 points in Kenyon's 60-53 victory over Ohio Northern in the championship game.

White, a 6-4 defensive ace from Athens, scored 18 and 20 points in Wittenberg's victories over Concordia, Minn., and Augsburg in the Lutheran Brotherhood Tournament. He was named the tournament MVP despite being held to just four points in his team's championship game victory over Capital.

The Bruins tipped the Barons 3-2 here Wednesday night in a battle decided by Peter McNab's third-period goal—his 25th of the season.

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): A fruitful day indicated, but your returns may not be quite as great as you expect. Remain composed and ready to shift to a lower gear in expectations - for the present at least.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Aim for early accomplishment, planned in your usual orderly fashion, but do not reject the novel or the unfamiliar without due consideration.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): You will now face competition - expected and unexpected. You usually relish a challenge, but be careful not to under- or overestimate opponents.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): The cool-headed approach in all matters will bring better results than the driving one. Your fine skills and talents are due for recognition soon.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): This day may be described as a duel between promise and performance. The effort expended and the direction taken will be the deciding factors. Think before acting!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A broad new concept of your job is in the making, which you should strive to understand. Consultation with persons who have bright, workable ideas could help change your strategies.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Care needed in travel, finances and job matters. There's a tendency toward carelessness which could lead to needless errors.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Demonstrate your abilities in a tactful manner, bearing in mind that some may not see eye to eye with you. In the long run, however, they WILL come around to your point of view.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Present influences indicate some obstacles - not insurmountable, but annoying unless you retain your sense of humor - AND patience.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Anchor to a well-organized program. Do not expose yourself to needless precarious action, or make foolish compromises, to be later regretted. Head up!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You should have new ambition and incentive under today's excellent influences. An unexpected business transaction could prove highly profitable.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Not much planetary help here, so day is practically your own to mold. Try to conclude long-term agreements if any are pending. Stars are generous in that respect.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with great versatility, ambition and love of knowledge. An intellectual by nature, you never stop developing this quality - that is, if developing on the higher plane. The Capricornian who does not live up to his potentials, however, can use his innate intelligence destructively, becoming a devious plotter and schemer - to the detriment of himself and those about him. Turn your fine traits to useful purpose and no one can be happier or more successful. Many writers, editors, lawyers and scientists have been Capricorn-born.

Octavius defeated Mark Anthony at the battle of Actium in 31 B.C.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Impressionist Rich Little plays his first dramatic role on "Hawaii Five-O" tonight, but he doesn't entirely give up his impersonations.

Rich gives a crackerjack performance as a self-appointed avenger who rubs out his victims in the style of James Cagney gangster movies.

"The guy's a movie nut and a Cagney freak," said Rich, who confessed he jumped at the offer for a dramatic part.

"I've played a small part on a 'Mannix,' but this is my first starring role. I've wanted to do this for a long time. It's hard to convince producers. They say, 'Sure, I'd love to have you, Rich, but with the millions you make in night clubs we can't afford you.'"

He said, "You get labeled as an impressionist and people don't think of you as an actor. I don't see why you can't do both."

Rich made the appearance on the CBS detective series for the standard guest star fee of $3,000 — but had to postpone a far more lucrative club date.

In the show he stalks the drug pushers behind the overdose death of a girl he secretly loved. He plays the role with a cold fury that gradually heightens into frenzy in the "White Heat" re-creation. Other scenes are re-created from "Roaring Twenties" and "Public Enemy."

Rich, with his comedic background, handles himself well in his dramatic debut. He laments that the scenes that gave the character more dimension ended up on the cutting room floor.

He is probably the best of the impressionists, and certainly the only one now seen regularly on TV. His own variety show was canceled by NBC, but he appears frequently on the "Tonight" show and "Hollywood Squares." He has a contract with ABC for several specials a year and exclusive appearances on that network's variety shows.

Interviewing Rich Little is like watching "That's Entertainment!" The impressions fly by like film clips. Mention Jimmy Stewart and he's Jimmy Stewart. If he tells a Howard Cosell anecdote, he's Cosell.

Rich said he never wanted to do the standard "you-dirty-rat" Cagney, but an older, rougher Cagney.

He said he wanted the role because it was the opposite of his boy-next-door image. "You go against what people think and it's effective," he said. "It's like Helen Hayes playing a psychopath. It grabs you."

Rauschenberg Exhibit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The largest exhibition of the works of Robert Rauschenberg ever held is currently on display at the Smithsonian National Collection of Fine Arts. The exhibition contains approximately 150 works from the late 1940s to the present and includes some of his most famous works.

The exhibition will travel to the Museum of Modern Art in New York, the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art, the Albright-Knox Art Gallery in Buffalo and the Art Institute of Chicago during 1977.

The newly hatched larva of a Monarch butterfly multiplies its weight by 2,700 times. If a six-pound baby grew that fast, it would weigh eight tons.

WILL IT GET OFF THE GROUND? — A Boeing 707 with special radar and electronic warning equipment takes off on a test flight in 1972. West Germany has blocked a decision by NATO allies to purchase a fleet of the planes to warn against low-flying attacks. The West Germans said they could not commit themselves until after the new government and parliament committees are in place.

Florida Hotel Strike Unsettled

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "You'd never know there's a strike on — the service has been A-1," says Nibs Gottesman of Long Island, N.Y., a guest at one of eight hotels hit by a walkout of service employees.

But Gary Mozer of Denver, who's paying $100 a day to stay at the same hotel, the Doral, says he's perturbed at the lack of service and wants a refund. "I've had to call the last couple of nights to get the beds fixed," said Mozer, a 25-year-old liquor store owner.

Such comments could influence today's negotiations as both sides were to return to the bargaining table for the first time in six days in an effort to settle a 12-day-old strike by maids, bellhops, food service and other workers.

Local 355 of the Hotel, Motel and Restaurant Employees Union was expected to point to complaints from such guests as Mozer, while the Southern Florida Hotel and Motel

Association would refer to the satisfaction of the Mrs. Gottesmans. Numerous winter visitors have voiced annoyance at inconveniences. For all the courtesy that management and temporary help show, some guests aren't finding what they sought.

Mozer is still staying at the Doral and said he's having a great time in the sun even though he hasn't gotten back any of his money. But he said he may never return.

He said he had looked forward to dining at the hotel's Starlight room. "But to only be served cocktails is a little depressing," he said. "When you come to the epitome of the great resorts, you expect to have dinner somewhere nice."

"I think $64 a day is a lot of money just to sleep," said Dr. Alfred Del Vecchio of Toms River, N.J., as he read and sunned himself at another struck hotel. He complained of no room service and only being served two meals a day.

The Roman Catholic Diocese called off a banquet for 639 persons at the Dupont Plaza. A spokesman said the archbishop "could not in good conscience" cross picket lines.

But most of the nightlife goes on since musicians are not honoring picket lines at the Dupont, the Sheraton Four Ambassadors and the Doral Country Club in Miami, and the Carillon, Doral, Deauville, Eden Roc, and Shelborne on the beach.

Some guests carried their own bags and made their beds, especially right after the strike began on Christmas Day. But the hotels have since filled many of the empty slots with new employees.

"Everything's good, just there was no evening meal," said Julius Baron, a retired garment factory owner from Boston.

The union says that the eight struck hotels and the Fontainebleau — largest convention host in the area — employ 6,000 of the 10,000 union members.

Those hotels, along with the Americana at Bal Harbour and the Diplomat at Hollywood, are the flagships of a resort industry that is seeing hard times.

"They've been complaining for a year that business isn't what it used to be, that the big spenders are taking their money elsewhere."

Bicentennial Proves Financial Disaster

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Paul Halecki opened a store full of Bicentennial items in July 1975 hoping to cash in on the nation's 200th anniversary, but the most popular item was a 59-cent button.

Now, with a store full of last year's items and a $20,000 deficit, Halecki has marked down everything in his American Heritage Shop from 10 to 50 per cent.

Most people didn't buy the $7.95 bicentennial dinner plate and no one bought his only sixounce sterling silver plate for $125, but now the plates are $4.50 each.

You have two choices now, he said. You can come downtown and pick up the plate at the reduced price or you can wait a decade and take your chances searching through flea markets.

Halecki's failure to sell any of his dozen bicentennial plates was an example of how poor his bicentennial trinket store business was.

"Business stunk," he said. "I haven't broken even since I was here."

His shop is filled with hundreds of varieties of decals, buttons, flags, cups and ashtrays promoting the nation's 200th birthday.

"I had items for 10 cents, which was a plastic pin with a flag on it. And the most expensive thing I had was a six-ounce sterling silver plate, $125. I only had one. I didn't sell that," he said.

"The biggest seller I had was 59-cent buttons." The buttons displayed the official bicentennial symbol, an eagle above the word "Bicentennial," a picture of Paul Revere's ride or other

Florida Hotel Strike Unsettled

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "You'd never know there's a strike on — the service has been A-1," says Nibs Gottesman of Long Island, N.Y., a guest at one of eight hotels hit by a walkout of service employees.

But Gary Mozer of Denver, who's paying $100 a day to stay at the same hotel, the Doral, says he's perturbed at the lack of service and wants a refund.

"I've had to call the last couple of nights to get the beds fixed," said Mozer, a 25-year-old liquor store owner.

Such comments could influence today's negotiations as both sides were to return to the bargaining table for the first time in six days in an effort to settle a 12-day-old strike by maids, bellhops, food service and other workers.

Local 355 of the Hotel, Motel and Restaurant Employees Union was expected to point to complaints from such guests as Mozer, while the Southern Florida Hotel and Motel

Association would refer to the satisfaction of the Mrs. Gottesmans.

Numerous winter visitors have voiced annoyance at inconveniences. For all the courtesy that management and temporary help show, some guests aren't finding what they sought.

Mozer is still staying at the Doral and said he's having a great time in the sun even though he hasn't gotten back any of his money. But he said he may never return.

He said he had looked forward to dining at the hotel's Starlight room. "But to only be served cocktails is a little depressing," he said. "When you come to the epitome of the great resorts, you expect to have dinner somewhere nice."

"I think $64 a day is a lot of money just to sleep," said Dr. Alfred Del Vecchio of Toms River, N.J., as he read and sunned himself at another struck hotel. He complained of no room service and only being served two meals a day.

The Roman Catholic Diocese called off a banquet for 639 persons at the Dupont Plaza. A spokesman said the archbishop "could not in good conscience" cross picket lines.

But most of the nightlife goes on since musicians are not honoring picket lines at the Dupont, the Sheraton Four Ambassadors and the Doral Country Club in Miami, and the Carillon, Doral, Deauville, Eden Roc, and Shelborne on the beach.

Some guests carried their own bags and made their beds, especially right after the strike began on Christmas Day. But the hotels have since filled many of the empty slots with new employees.

"Everything's good, just there was no evening meal," said Julius Baron, a retired garment factory owner from Boston.

The union says that the eight struck hotels and the Fontainebleau — largest convention host in the area — employ 6,000 of the 10,000 union members.

Those hotels, along with the Americana at Bal Harbour and the Diplomat at Hollywood, are the flagships of a resort industry that is seeing hard times.

They've been complaining for a year that business isn't what it used to be, that the big spenders are taking their money elsewhere.

Bicentennial Proves Financial Disaster

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Paul Halecki opened a store full of Bicentennial items in July 1975 hoping to cash in on the nation's 200th anniversary, but the most popular item was a 59-cent button.

Now, with a store full of last year's items and a $20,000 deficit, Halecki has marked down everything in his American Heritage Shop from 10 to 50 per cent.

Most people didn't buy the $7.95 bicentennial dinner plate and no one bought his only sixounce sterling silver plate for $125, but now the plates are $4.50 each.

You have two choices now, he said. You can come downtown and pick up the plate at the reduced price or you can wait a decade and take your chances searching through flea markets.

Halecki's failure to sell any of his dozen bicentennial plates was an example of how poor his bicentennial trinket store business was.

"Business stunk," he said, "I haven't broken even since I was here."

His shop is filled with hundreds of varieties of decals, buttons, flags, cups and ashtrays promoting the nation's 200th birthday.

"I had items for 10 cents, which was a plastic pin with a flag on it. And the most expensive thing I had was a six-ounce sterling silver plate, $125. I only had one. I didn't sell that," he said.

"The biggest seller I had was 59-cent buttons." The buttons displayed the official bicentennial symbol, an eagle above the word "Bicentennial," a picture of Paul Revere's ride or other

Harsha Co-Sponsors Bill To Extend PW Program

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Congressman William H. Harsha has co-sponsored legislation to expand the public works jobs program and begin work on hundreds of additional local construction projects throughout the nation.

In joining House Democrat leaders in sponsoring the bill to expand Title I of the Public Works Capital Investment and Development Act, Harsha promised to help expedite Public Works Committee action in reporting the legislation very early in this Congress.

"Early action on this bill will allow the Economic Development Administration to release right away additional funds to start work on projects for which formal applications are already on file," said Harsha.

The original legislation, approved in the 94th Congress, authorized $2 billion for Title I grants. However, applications for these grants soon totalled $24 billion—twelve times the number that could be accommodated.

In Ohio, 1,220 applications worth $1.3 billion were submitted for the state's allotted $59.5 million. They were scored and ranked by computer.

"Many communities in the Sixth District are in need of the assistance provided under this program," said Harsha, "but the strong demand and competition for a limited amount of money available have restricted the number of applications approved."

The jobs program provides federal money for a variety of development projects including construction of municipal water and sewer systems, schools, community buildings, libraries, and health facilities.

The $4 billion authorized in the bill would more than double the impact of the present jobs program, with at least

Demands Increase For Israeli Probe

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Demands for a full investigation of the latest scandal to hit Israel's ruling Labor party continued today despite Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's claim that his housing minister who committed suicide was falsely accused of embezzlement.

The potential for damage to the party's chances in the May 17 election was heightened by suggestions that Abraham Ofer shot himself Monday night because Rabin and other members of the cabinet turned their backs on him.

The prime minister in a eulogy at Ofer's funeral Wednesday claimed the charges that Ofer was linked to the alleged diversion of government land money were libels.

Reading from Ofer's suicide note that "I did not embezzle or steal," Rabin said: "These sincere words in a moment of supreme reckoning challenge those he held responsible for slandering him and spilling his blood."

"Will this serve to shock, to teach how careful people must be in their speech and in the press to honor a man and his innocence, and not to judge without trial?"

Ehud Olmert, an anti-Labor member of parliament, said Rabin appeared to be trying to shift the blame for the suicide "onto the shoulders of those who performed their proper duties, including the press and political bodies."

Olmert, who first raised the question of Ofer's involvement in the scandal in parliament last week, said the minister's "depression resulted from his colleagues' attitudes toward him and especially the reaction of Rabin himself." However, Rabin in his eulogy said he told Ofer the day before his death, after he denied the accusations, "Avraham, I, Yitzhak Rabin, believe you."

Yigal Laviv, the reporter who first charged Ofer with wrongdoing, demanded that the investigation of the dead man's affairs go forward.

"Money was taken from a public company," he said. "Ofer gave this money to the Labor party in the 1973 election campaign."

Gilmore Advocates Map Plans

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Lawyers opposed to capital punishment will meet to map strategy for delaying Gary Gilmore's Jan. 17 execution, and one of them says he is sure they will succeed.

"I feel confident that Mr. Gilmore will live beyond the 17th," said Jinks Dabney, an attorney with the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), who said the meeting would be held Monday.

But the lawyer for the 36-year-old condemned killer said Wednesday his client was pleased that there have been no recent attempts to delay the execution he says he prefers to more time in prison.

Ronald Stanger said Gilmore was "in the best frame of mind I've seen him in since I've represented him. In a way, he's happy."

Gilmore, convicted of killing a Provo motel clerk during a robbery last summer, was ordered by District Court Judge J. Robert Bullock to face a firing squad at sunrise one week from next Monday. Two earlier execution dates were stayed. His would be the first execution in the United States since 1967.

The Utah and U.S. Supreme courts have declined to hear appeals to stop the execution. The governor's power was exhausted in a previous stay.

But Dabney said the ACLU and lawyers for other Death Row inmates were "not going to give up, and a lot of us feel there is an excellent chance of getting a stay in this case."

"After all, his execution will affect one heck of a lot of people, especially others on Death Row."

He said some lawyers feel Utah's death penalty law could be found unconstitutional because it lacks a provision for automatic appeal upon conviction.

Dabney said he thought it was still possible Gilmore would "change his mind about dying," because of his love for Nicole Barrett, 20, who has been confined in a mental institution since joining him in an unsuccessful suicide pact on Nov. 16.
